On the evening of September 30, 1983 something exciting happened. The newly consolidated high school held the first dance of the year. Anticipating a new beginning, over 800 enthusiastic students attended. The dance, held in the San Leandro High Gym, provided an ideal opportunity for students to meet and offered an exciting change from the usual reunion oriented Hello Dance. Enthusiasm electrified the evening.

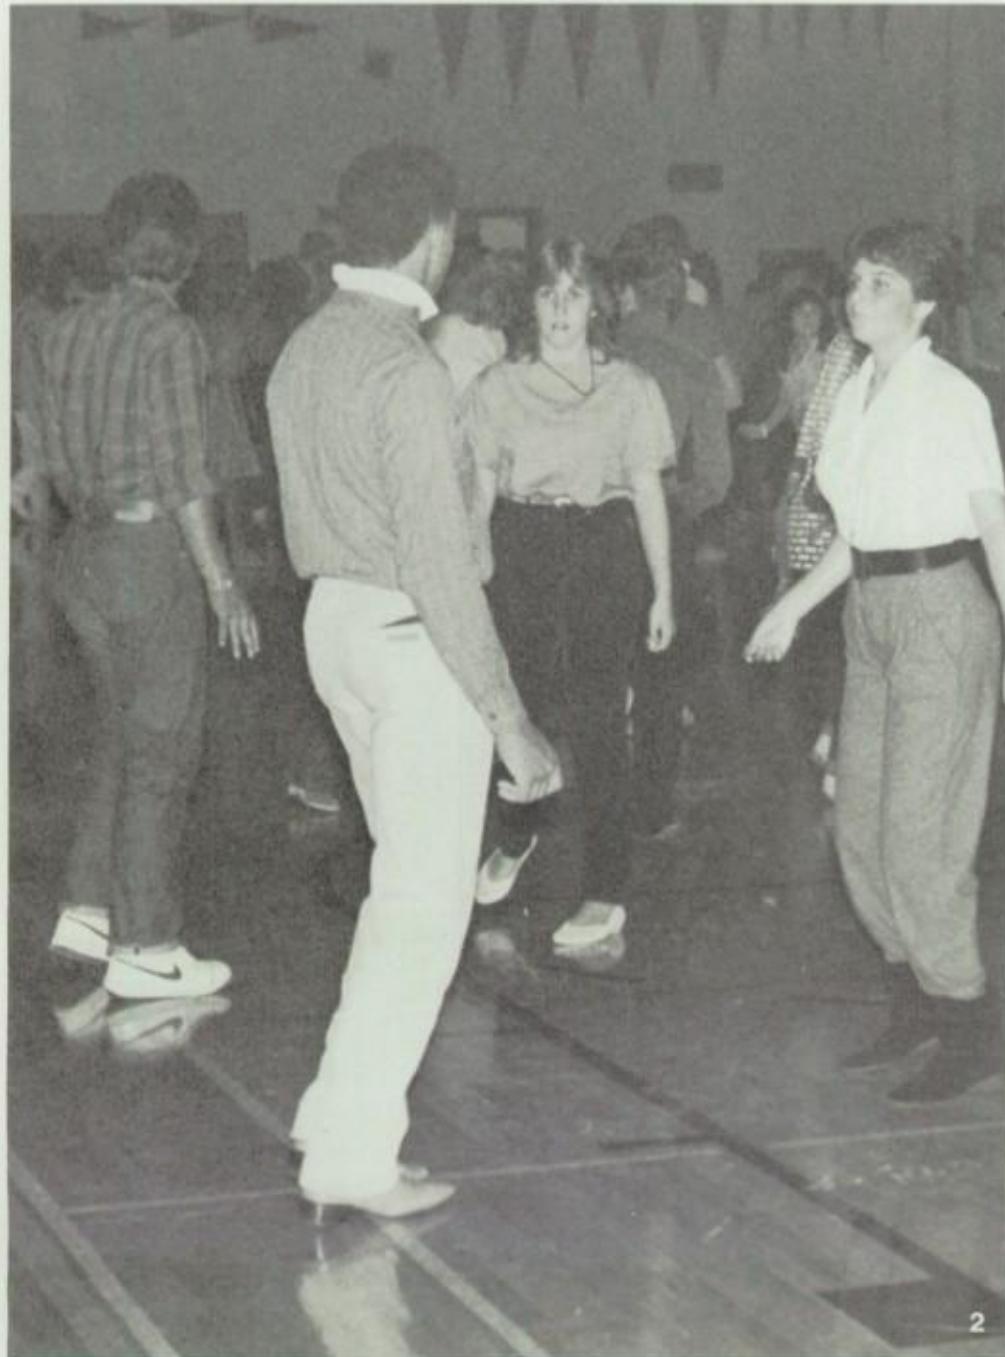

The Executive Committee-sponsored dance netted $1200 as the dance floor was packed with students befriending one another. Junior Valerie Lozano caught the feeling of most people when she said, "I loved dancing with new people!"

With twice as many students came a new supply of dance partners. The students took full advantage of the situation, dancing feverishly for a full three hours.

The Hello Dance was a fine occasion for making new friends. After all, what better place to meet than a dance? There is hardly a substitute. Sophomore Chris Lee remarked, "I met a guy at the dance and got to know him a lot better. We're good friends now so I'm really glad I went."

It seems that just as dances were getting stale, the students were given an opportunity to experience a new beginning.

1/Junior Mario Cannizzaro and Junior Heidi Foreman dance, dance, dance.
2/Amy Kehret, sophomore, twists again as she did last summer.
3/Sophomore Kim Buchorn gets down with Senior Dan Allen while Junior Matt Maloon struts across the floor.

On October 29 the scene was ncient Rome as the gym was transformed into a Roman temple. Students dressed in a variety of togas and assorted foliage and rocked away to the sounds of Good Vibrations. This dance, the Second Annual Toga Dance, was sponsored by the Cargo Staff. The dance's $800 profits aided the staff in producing the school newspaper.

Even on crutches (due to a football injury) Senior Dave Beguelin said, "It was fun hopping around on one leg, leaning on Anna Hajopoulos (Senior). The major point was to have a good time." And all in all, everyone had a great time. For over two hours the floor shook with the gyrations of various excited dancers, including Senior Eugene Poulin, who stated, "Although the DJ's were a little late, they made up for it by playing outstanding music like the B-52's." Both underclassmen and upperclassmen broke loose and dressed up for the Roman theme. "I was really amazed that so many people wore togas. It was great!" commented Junior Kathy Morjig. This highly energized and entertaining event was one tradition all hoped would forever live on at S.L.!

SONGGIRLS RED HOT AT OMEGA

San Leandro High's rally squad was definitely nothing to laugh at. The crowd watched in amazement as the squad showed their stuff at the 25th Annual Omega Rally. Held at the Church of the Crossroads in Castro Valley on Saturday, October 29, the rally started at 6:00 pm. Twenty-five rally squads representing various Bay Area High Schools came to show their spirit. The S.L. songgirls started off by dedicating their performance to the memory of Pacific High School. The crowd went wild. The songgirls performed their original routine to the theme of the hit summer movie "Staying Alive." Captivating the judges and the crowd, the songgirls finished their four minute routine, receiving a standing ovation from the judges. Co-Head Songgirl Teresa Dean, senior, commented, "Omega was really special for all of us this year. It's a memory that will always bring us joy." Hours and hours of hard practice paid off as the squad received well-deserved respect. Best of all, the songgirls got to go home with the first place trophy. The large, enthusiastic SLHS crowd captured second place in spirit and enthusiasm. S.L. was also honored with a third place trophy in the Sweepstakes category, based on a combination of points from cheerleaders, songgirls, and school spirit. It had been many years since San Leandro High had received recognition in all of the categories. Co-Head Songgirl Lynsey Arieta, senior, summed up Omega saying, "We practiced hard, did our best, and now we're number one!"

1/Shaking her rain-soaked pom-poms, Michelle Fuller, junior, laughs as she gets extra wet!

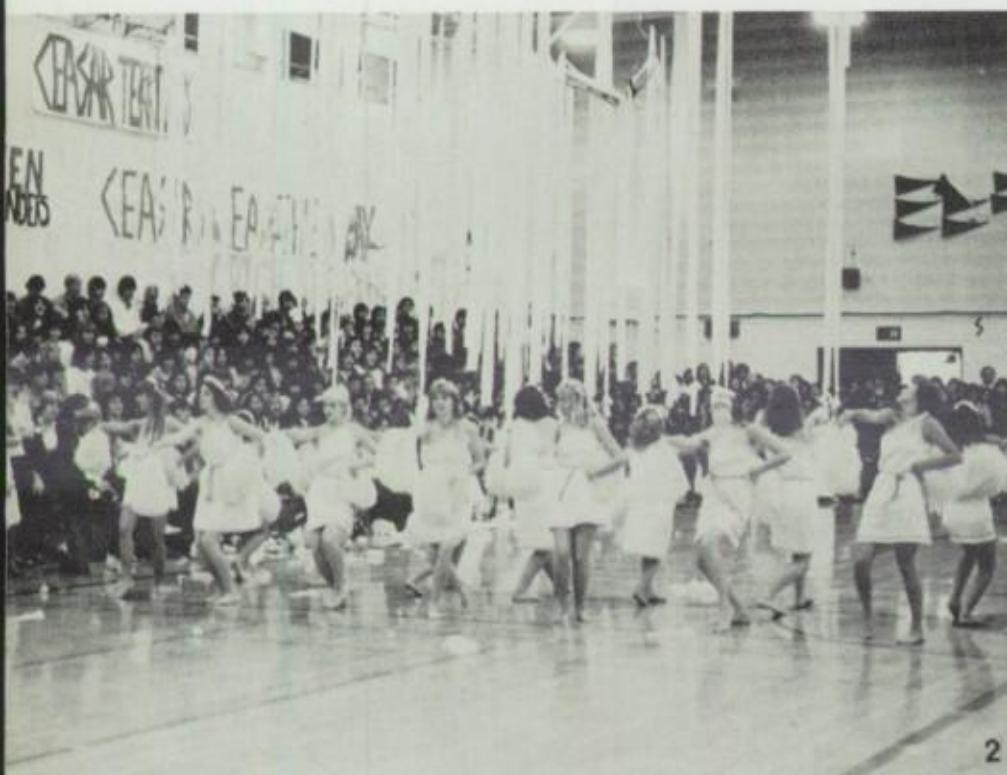

2+3/Songgirls show off their Omega trophies and spell out their favorite school: SL!

4/Junior Danielle August does her impression of a flaming pom-pom shake.

The Sophomore Caesars were in first place at the conclusion of Spirit Week, due, in part, to the tremendous reduction in points that plagued the Senior class.

The Caesars started Spirit Week by holding their first rally in the lobby Monday morning November 7. The Sophomores got into the spirit of things by dressing in togas of all shapes, colors, and sizes. Being the youngest class for two consecutive Spirit Weeks was not easy. However, as the action of Spirit Week built, so did the Sophomores' enthusiasm. Despite the setback of losing over half the songguys to a football game, (many members of the squad were also Junior Varsity players), the Caesars put on a great show. Sophomore Kimberly O'Young commented, "I thought the songguys did a fantastic job!" Dressed in togas, wigs, and tennis shoes, the remaining songguys did a routine to Bob Segar's "Old Time Rock and Roll." The songgirls took a somewhat more sophisticated approach, using more advanced combinations than their male counterparts. The skit closely followed the Caesar theme, and illustrated the Vikings' and Pirates' newly formed unity pitched against their new rivals, the Piedmont Highlanders.

In the end, the Caesars' hard work and determination, as well as a lucky break, earned them first place.

JUNIOR MADNESS BRINGS SADNESS TO CLASS OF '85

- 1/Junior John Thomas gets a kick out of building a human pyramid.
- 2/Junior Madness hits the gym!
- 3/Cheerleader Teresa Selph, junior, waits for the music to start.
- 4/The junior guys entertain the crowd.
- 5/Junior songgirls are amazed that it is raining toilet paper.

The Junior class led itself to defeat during Spirit Week. In the past, the class of 1985 proved a threat to the other classes, but this year the story was quite different. Their Spirit Week theme - Junior Madness - was one of the class's biggest problems as the Juniors did not know how they were supposed to dress.

Monday's rally proved to be less than expected, due to lack of class participation. During the week's competitions, the Junior class made a habit of coming in last. Although the class came to the big rally with no songguys, cheerleaders, or skit, they did manage to decorate their section of the gym with posters and blue toilet paper. The small squad of Junior songgirls tried to raise spirit in their classmates, but the class suffered a definite dearth of enthusiasm. The songgirls then performed their routine to the combination of two songs, "Maniac" and "Delirious". These girls were quite proud of themselves. Although their choreographer had become ill earlier in the week and couldn't finish their routine, the songgirls got it together and did quite well. Lack of class participation, however, killed any Junior hopes of winning Spirit Week. One of the songgirls, Teresa Selph, stated, "Our class just wasn't as united as in previous years." Let's hope the class of '85 gets better with age.

SOCKHOP SPIRIT SOARS

On Tuesday, November 8, the Seniors started Spirit Week gathering at school at an eye-opening 4:30 AM to decorate cars for their breakfast, held at Lyon's in San Leandro. The breakfast started a wave of rowdiness in the Senior class. Returning to school, the Seniors flocked to the cafeteria which had been disguised as the '50's hangout "Arnolds," fitting the sockhop theme perfectly. The class maintained its spirit throughout the day in both its morning and afternoon rallies.

As Wednesday rolled around, the Seniors were ready for battle. For the Big Rally, the class of 1984 crammed into the "Senior" section of the gym. Nobody was prepared for the Senior's tremendous amount of energy. "Having a great theme helped," commented Senior Songgirl Jennifer Johnson. "Our class really got into it and showed overwhelming spirit!" Susie Wallace added, "We had a better time this year because we were really organized, for a change." The red and white cheerleaders got the class hyped up and ready for the rally. The songgirls added enthusiasm to the feverish seniors with their clever 50's routine to "Sexy and Seventeen" by the Stray Cats. Next came the songguys who were basically undescribable. These six seniors shocked faculty, students, and even their own class with a routine to "Wait a Minute, Mr. Postman," so obscene it terminated in a 3-day suspension. Their routine resulted in so many negative points that the class lost its winning position and was forced to give up first place to the Sophomores. "We didn't think we'd get into so much trouble but we did have fun and it will give us something to look back on and laugh at," stated songguy Angelo Pietroforte. Despite the setback, it was great to see the Seniors' spirit at an all-time high.

HOMECOMING DANCE TELLS IT ALL

The Homecoming Dance, held in San Leandro's gym November 9, offered the students an opportunity to hear all the big news of the day: who won the football game; who won Spirit Week; and who won the prestigious title of Homecoming King and Queen. The Junior class sponsored the dance, hiring the popular new wave radio station KQAK, more popularly known as "The Quake," to provide the evening's music. "The people from 'The Quake' did a really good job setting up the gym. It looked great and the music was fantastic," commented Senior Mary Long. The dance provided a terrific conclusion to Spirit Week.

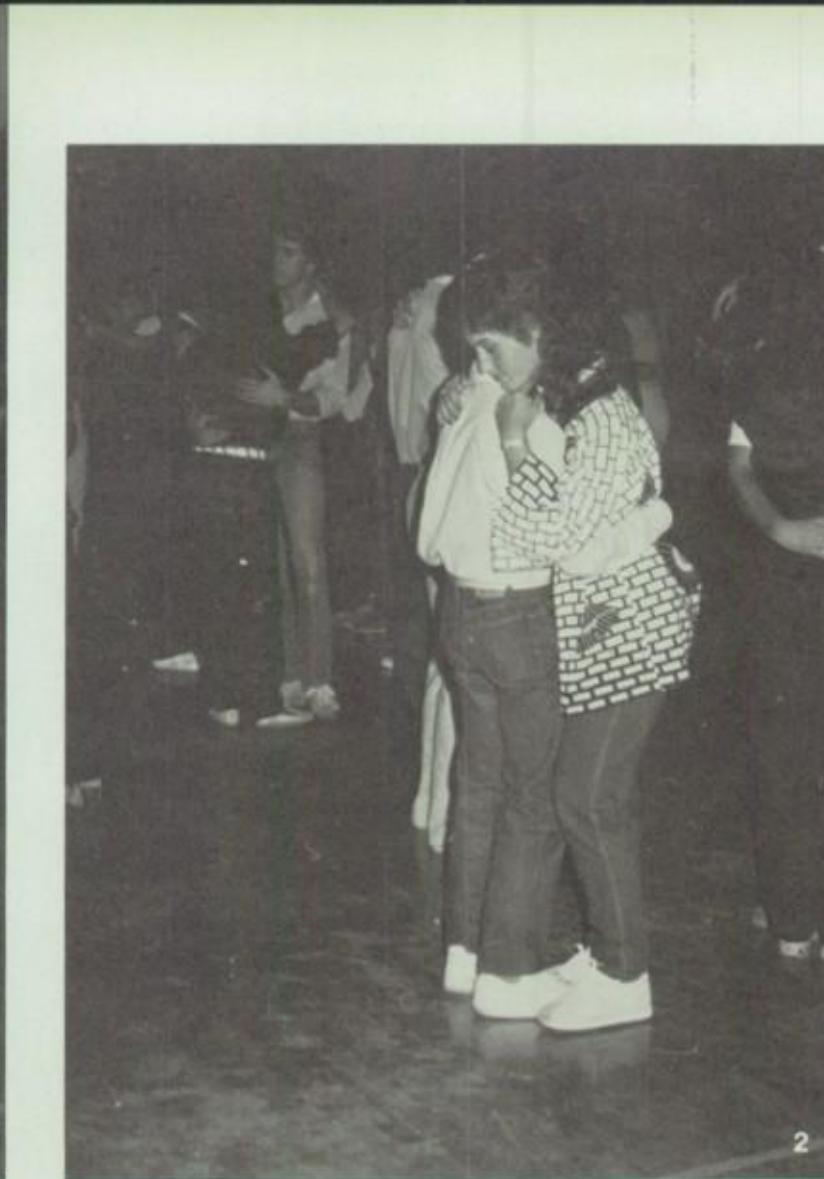

1/Junior Class Presidents Linda Granger and Connie Legaspi survey the Floor.

2/Sophomore Cathy Vitz discusses the results of the Homecoming election with her attentive friends.

3/Junior Mike Newsom's attention is temporarily diverted from his partner, Junior Carol Jordan.

1/Senior Lynne Harrington boogies with the unknown.

4/Senior Sandra Casanas casts a watchful eye on the other side of the gym, while Seniors Rosemarie Esposito and Leah Benevides wait for her report.

With the combining of schools came the combining of traditions. This year, San Leandro High and Pacific High melded their old ways to form a new set of customs to pass along. The whole idea was for each school to give a little and take a little. With this philosophy in mind, the student body set out to elect not only a Homecoming King and Queen, but to select two Juniors to fill the positions of Prince and Princess, and two Sophomores to adopt the title of Duke and Duchess. Each class nominated members of its own grade level for the appropriate position. After the nominees were announced, the entire student body elected the winners. Seniors Jeff Knorr and Karen Sarafian were voted Homecoming King and Queen for 1983. To Jeff Knorr, the victory came as a complete surprise. "I was amazed and flattered. I really didn't expect to win." Karen Sarafian was equally astounded. When asked how she felt about being Queen, Karen replied, "It's an honor and a privilege to be chosen as the first Homecoming Queen of the consolidated high schools." Juniors Alex Gilmete was chosen Prince and Michelle Fuller Princess. The Sophomore position of Duke and Duchess was clinched by Matt Bellini and Tina Diamond. Presenting the evening's awards was Pacific's Homecoming Queen for 1982, Liz Ferreria.

- 3/ As the evening progresses, the band plays on.
- 4/ The crowd anxiously awaits the band's December performance.
- 5/ Band conductor Dr. Gordon Mewes is thoroughly pleased with the winter concert.

Christmas wishes and good cheer filled the air at the annual Winter Concert held the evening of December 14. San Leandro High's gym was quickly occupied with anxious spectators awaiting to hear a few cheerful Christmas melodies. Public interest was visible in the large audience turnout. Band conductor Dr. Gordon Mewes presented his talented group at their peak performance. Of the many selections played, "Christmas Festival" and "Bless Ye Merry Gentlemen" were the most enthusiastically received by the audience. The evening highlight occurred during the playing of the "1812 overture" when twelve shots were fired by Pete Bellew and Tony Cabral into a steel drum. Though there were no decorations, the band did a wonderful job, and the evening proved to be an enjoyable one for all who attended.

WINTER SETTING INSPIRES ROMANCE

A night of Wonderful Winter Romance was the appeal that lured the students of San Leandro High to the Winter Ball.

The 1983 Winter Ball had two unusual qualities: it was held on Saturday, December 17; and the decor was the best in San Leandro High's history. Based on the appearance of the dancers, all in attendance had a wonderful, romantic, and exciting evening. As Senior Dale Miller commented, "The decorations were really nice, and there were nice tables set up as places to sit. Also, there was good food to eat, making one of the best Winter Balls ever!"

THIS PAGE: 1/Seniors Arnie Fields and Kelly King whirl in a Winter Wonderland.

OPPOSITE PAGE: 1/Celebrity Tony "T.K." Kilbert of KMEL hosts the evening's festivities. 2/Putting all thoughts of his date aside, Senior Jeff Carter thinks, "Wow, I could've had a V-8!" 3/Seniors Dave Beguelin and Anna Hajopoulos share a romantic moment.

VALENTINE'S DANCE CAPTURES S.L.'S HEART

After an intriguing advertising campaign, the Sophomore class lured eager dancers to the February 10 Valentine's Dance. The promise that the attendants would be enveloped in a cloud of fog enticed many curious students. An added attraction was the Sweetheart Contest, with the winners announced later in the dance. The ingenious Sophomore Class compounded its income by offering the chance to vote for a Sweetheart couple with money. During the week, five couples were nominated by the student body. Voting with pennies, (one per vote) determined the winning couple.

By the time the doors opened, impatient SL students were more than ready to dance all night long. Once the dance began, an unbelievable surge of hyperactivity materialized with the dance-starved people boogied as they had never boogied before. The size of the crowd on the floor did not once diminish in the three hours. Stated Junior Kevin Bird, "It was a great dance, but the better they are the sooner they end. I wish it had been about ten dances longer!"

December 2, 3, 9, and 10 were memorable evenings for the cast, crew, and audiences who witnessed the performances of The Man Who Came to Dinner. Held in the new drama portable, the play incorporated the talents of many S.L.H.S. students to entertain and delight a responsive audience. The plot told of the antics of an actor, played by Senior Bill Becker, and his strange and sometimes slightly insane acquaintances and friends. As the story unfolded, the audience witnessed Maggie Cutler, played by Senior Joyce Rutledge, fall in love with newspaper man Bert Jefferson, played by Junior Andy Shaw. Sheridan, unable to accept the prospect of losing his trustworthy and efficient secretary, attempted to foil the blooming romance by inviting his old friend, actress Loraine Sheldon, played by Senior Nancy DaSilva, to sweep Bert off his feet. Sheridan's efforts proved to be overly successful, and he was faced with the burden of losing his secretary to love or keeping her on and dealing with her resentment. Choosing the former, Sheridan was confronted with the problem of removing Loraine from the premises. Sheridan finally deposited Loraine in a mummy case and sent her to Nova Scotia, thus leaving Maggie and Bert free to continue their thriving relationship. In evaluating the play, lead Bill Becker stated, "It was an exhilarating part to perform and if offered the chance, I'd do it again in a second!"

The cast wasn't the only group to thoroughly enjoy the production, as the audience at each performance definitely had a great time. commented Senior Barbara Matchette, "The play was an absolute riot and one of the best I've ever seen!"

UNIQUE BOARD UNITES

Consolidation brought a number of changes to student government. This year's executive board was comprised of officers elected last year at S.L. and Pacific. Both schools elected an Executive Board President, Vice President, and Secretary-Treasurer. At the beginning of this school year, Presidents became co-Presidents, Vice Presidents became co-Vice Presidents, and Secretary-Treasurers became either Secretary or Treasurer. The same system was used to make up the class boards. Commissioners and assistants petitioned for their positions and were appointed by the Board early in the year.

Actually, they are only a few of the pieces in the game of Chess, which was played fanatically everyday at lunch in rooms 101 and 102. S.L. students flocked to these rooms to engage in tournaments organized by Mrs. Tomalina Sweeney, advisor for the Chess Club this past year. She helped students with their game and made sure things went smoothly for everyone involved.

VARSITY SQUAD HELPS RAISE SCORES

The pirate Varsity cheerleading squad led a very successful year on the field and off. The squad helped the Varsity football and basketball teams raise their scores, and tighten up their line as they urged the "Big Red" to go all the way down the field to victory.

Along with the games, the cheerleaders participated in the 25th annual Omega Kickoff Rally and raised school spirit by giving a breathtaking performance that earned the songgirls first place in their division. The varsity squad also raised the audience's spirit so much that the school earned second place in that division. Overall, the squad earned a third place trophy.

JV'S SPARK SPIRIT

San Leandro's J.V. squad went through change this past year with the addition of a J.V. song girl unit. Although the J.V. contingency was not as large as the Varsity, the members showed just as much spirit. The squad practiced often to perfect its routines and cheers. Even though the girls didn't perform at the Omega rally, the squad was present in full uniform at the Omega to cheer on their school.

J.V. was made up of a mixture of Juniors and Sophomores who auditioned at the end of last year for a place on one of the four squads. A lot of people were careful to watch the squad this season because today's J.V.'s will be tomorrow's Varsity.

YOU WANT IT WHEN?

"Hurry up and finish your pages; the deadline's almost here. Go out and get these ads. Refit that copy block. Finish that layout." These commands are just a small part of a conversation you might have heard coming out of room 124 during third period.

Everyday, a group of students gathered together to put Anchors Aweigh into production. "This year's book should be one of S.L.'s best because of the combined efforts of many students," predicted editor Julie Misrack.

Before you can get a good yearbook, however, you need editors with fresh and not too challenging ideas for a yearbook. This year's editors were Julie Misrack and Michelle Gonsalves. The two kept the staff together and provided assistance when a section needed it. Their careful guidance helped to put this very page together.

On October twelfth, News Staff gave birth to its first child. After careful decision-making it was named Cargo. (What kind of person would name a kid Cargo, you might ask). Actually, Cargo wasn't a child; it was S.L.'s school newspaper. Cargo's parents were actually the various editors of the paper. Cargo also had many uncles and aunts to take care of it during its teething stage.

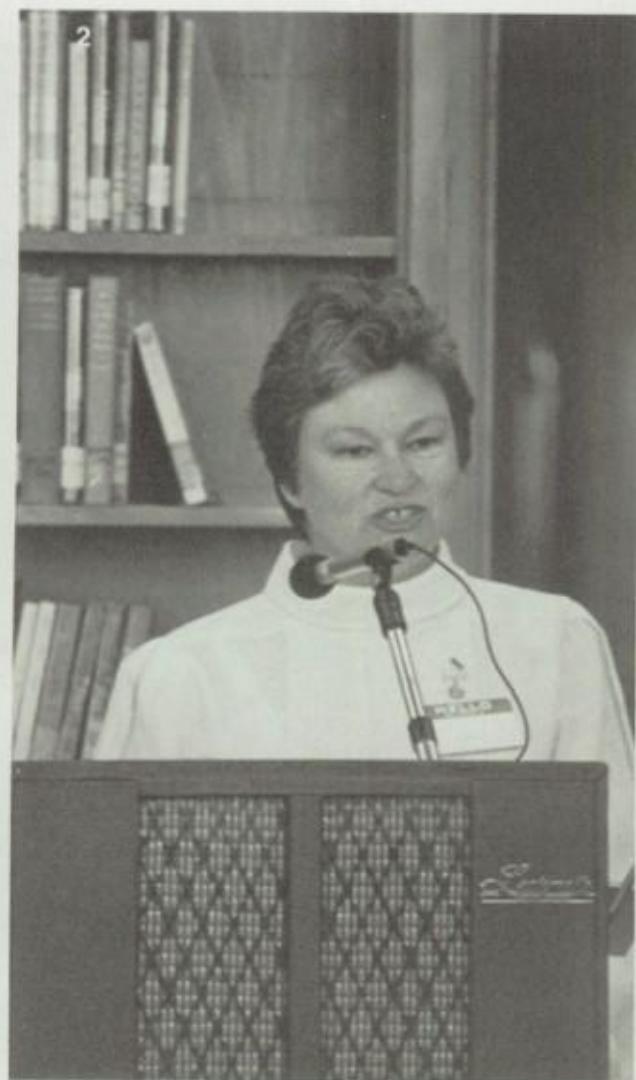

The first edition featured a variety of different stories, including one about Mr. Menetrey missing his old lady; another about Miss Young and Gladys, her split-leaf philadendron as well as the usual movie review and carspotlight.

The principals of Bancroft, John Muir, and San Leandro as well as numerous P.T.S.A. members were in attendance to see the presentation of the service awards by Mrs. Jo Ellen Thompson and to hear Bancroft's Choir, John Muir's Choir, and San Leandro's Jazz Ensemble. After the ceremony, refreshments were served to the crowd that looked forward to the 88th Founders' Day.

S.L.'s outstanding musical groups were the Orchestra and Notables. The Orchestra, directed by Dr. Gordon Mewes, was made up of the outstanding instrumentalists in the school who performed some very difficult music and thrilled audiences everywhere.

The Notables, under the direction of Mr. Roy Glover, had a much calmer year than they have had in the past. Although the Christmas season was very slow the performance schedule filled up during the second semester. the underclassmen in the group are looking forward to future years in Notables.

The music building at S.L. was the center for many students who were musically inclined. Among the groups who practiced there, two stood out. One was the Jazz Ensemble which every morning stumbled into M-2 at 7:30. When they finally opened their eyes enough to read the music, they began to play some of the best music the school had ever heard. The other terrific group of S.L. music students was the Wind Ensemble whose members gathered together first period in M-2. In this group of students were those who played flutes, clarinets, saxophones, and other wind instruments. Both instrumental groups were directed by Dr. Gorden Mewes and both gave performances throughout the year. Jazz Ensemble's first performance of the year was at the Back to School Night dinner. Wind Ensemble's first performance was the Winter Concert held in the S.L. gym. A lot of time and effort went into the final production of each concert, but it all paid off in the end when the music students heard the applause.

CHOIR, P.O.P., SPARKLE

This year, the vocal music department involved many early risers. The Pirates of Pizazz, a group of S.L.'s best singers and dancers, met every morning at 7:00 to rehearse the routines they would thrill audiences with all year long. The P.O.P. material came from musicals. ("Everybody Rejoice" from the Wiz) and from the music charts ("Won't Last A Day Without You" by the Carpenters).

Choir met first period to practice for the Winter concert in December and for the Godspell concert in May. Also in May the Choir performed the music from Godspell at several of the elementary schools in the area. For these performances everyone dressed in the style of the sixties. A lot of Choir's success was attributable to accompanist Karen O'Young "Without Karen we probably would have had to listen to tapes music, and when you're learning new songs it isn't as good as the real thing," stated sophomore Chris Steel.

S. L. had not two bands, but four: Concert Band, Stage Band, Wind Ensemble, and Jazz Band.

The Concert and Stage Bands were made up of beginning students interested in improving their musical skills. Although there were no concerts at which these groups could perform, they did bring many pieces of music to performance level. Most of these students looked forward to joining other groups next year. Practicing was a great opportunity for these musicians to brush up on the basics and for a few of them to learn a new instrument. The class was not all work and no play, however, despite the rigorous training, the students always enjoyed themselves and together made great music.

Can you imagine getting out of school for one week to go to see a chair? How about if it was the chair that Carroll O'Conner sat in as Archie Bunker? What if you also saw a leather jacket that Henry Winkler wore as Fonzie and a cowboy hat worn by Larry Hagman as J.R.? All of these items can be found at the Smithsonian Institute Museum of American History in Washington D.C., visited by four SL students who spent the week of January 30-February 3 in Washington with Project Close Up.

With Mr. Carl Feick, advisor, Kathy Cummings, Margie Glickman, Melinda Hall, and Bill Wakeman visited such memorable sites as the White House, the Capitol Building, the Supreme Court, the National Art Gallery and the Lincoln, Jefferson, Hiroshima, Kennedy and Vietnam Veterans memorials.

The delegation from San Leandro also toured several colleges in the area and met with Representatives from California and the Bay Area.

Although the food was barely enough to keep everyone going until the final dance, all in attendance said they enjoyed the entire week and would not think twice about doing it all over again.

LUNCHTIME CLUBS THRIVE

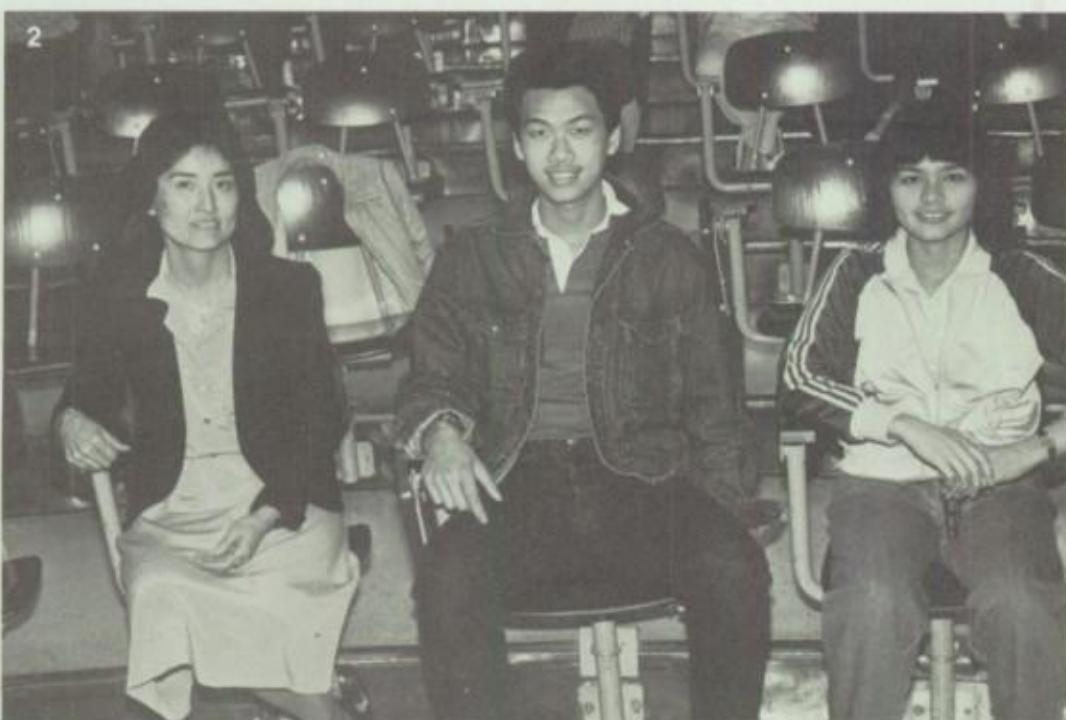

While many students headed for Palma Plaza, Taco Bell, McDonalds, Burger King, or the school cafeteria at lunchtime, several others opted to put a bit of culture into their lives by joining either the Asian Club or the Computer Club.

Although the Asian Club didn't get started until the second semester, it had a very successful and productive first year. With the help of their advisor Mrs. Bernice Mongi, the club sold Gummi Bears to raise funds for next year's activities.

Computer Club members had an apple for lunch, an Apple computer that is. Almost any day at lunch, the computer room was packed with students most of whom came to play one of the many video games that were available. Some students even designed their own games. Other Computer Club members used the graphics or did homework.

CLOSE DOES NOT COUNT

Back in August, when everyone was going to the beaches and celebrating the last few weeks of summer, the San Leandro Pirates were out on the football field getting ready for the big year. This year, with the schools combined, the team had plenty of good players to backup the first string. Also, with the addition of a new coach, Tom Gunnari, the team was looking forward to a different style of play. The pirates started the pre-season games out slowly with a 2-3 record, losing barely to O'Dowd 10-9, and to San Lorenzo 20-14. With the start of league games, however, the pirates came alive winning the first two games. After losing two heart-breaking games, 6-0 to Harry Ells and 15-14 to Encinal, the Pirates came back tough shutting out Piedmont 14-0.

At the conclusion of the season, Jesse Gallegos was awarded MVP, Brian Botelho Most Valuable Back, Bill Nelson Most Valuable Defensively, Mike Santos Most Valuable special teams, Dennis Basbas Most Inspirational, Matt Bellini Most Valuable sophomore, and Danny Bull Most Improved.

Coach Gunnari has been a football coach for 28 years, the last 23 at Pacific High. With the closing of Pacific last year, he pursued the job of football coach at San Leandro and was hired to mold the combined unit. "I wanted to be part of the transition," Gunnari said. I felt it was an important thing to do." He will not coach after this season, for health reasons, although his influence will not soon be forgotten.

J.V. SWEEP LEAGUE

All their hard work in August paid off for the JV football team which went 5-0 in league play and compiled a 7-2-1 record overall. Although the Pirates started out slowly, with a 2-2-1 pre-season, they blasted their league opponents on their way to an undefeated season. The defense allowed only eight points in league play. "Our defense played a major role in leading the team to an undefeated season," says Nate Ringor, defensive end. The JV team showed great potential for bringing the A.C.A.L. championship to S.L. next year. At the end of the season, Jeff Cambra was awarded MVP, Joel David, Best Back, Tony Goulart, Most Dedicated; Matt Hart, Best Defensive-ly, and Bill Charlton, Best Lineman. Coaches Mark Stahowski and Pete Tuminelli should be recognized for their fine job this season.

VARSITY REFINES SKILLS

The 4-6 league record did not reflect the power of the S. L. Varsity Volleyball team. Although the girls had a great advantage (most of them had been working together as a team since their freshman year), their skills needed yet more refining.

Over the summer, Mrs. Marianne Duncan, the Varsity Volleyball coach, and Amanda Johnson, most improved, attended volleyball camp at Shasta College. On returning, they shared many new skills for as Amanda Johnson noted, "Volleyball is a game of brain not brawn."

J.V. WINS LEAGUE, EARNS RESPECT

The J.V. Volleyball team had an outstanding season (losing once to Encinal) and took 1st place in the ACAL.

One week before school, the players started hours of demanding practice. The basic objective was to improve skills with drills and conditioning. Practice paid off in a winning season.

Coach Cheryl Davidson summarized, "This J.V. team has a lot of strength that will show in next year's Varsity team."

The players receiving special awards were Amy MacFarlene - Most Valuable, Lorianne Lee - Most Inspirational and Candi Moenich - Most Improved.

CROSS COUNTRY SHOWS STRENGTH

The football team wasn't the only team that endured a lot of pain. The determined distancers of the Cross-Country team gave it their all in every three mile course. The group ran uphill in Joaquin Miller Park and down the beach in Alameda. Pain and stamina were what it took to pass the runner in front, to win a meet, to improve a personal score. The Cross-Country runners learned a lot about pain and stamina this season.

DETERMINED ACTION, HARD WORK IMPROVE GIRLS' TENNIS TEAM

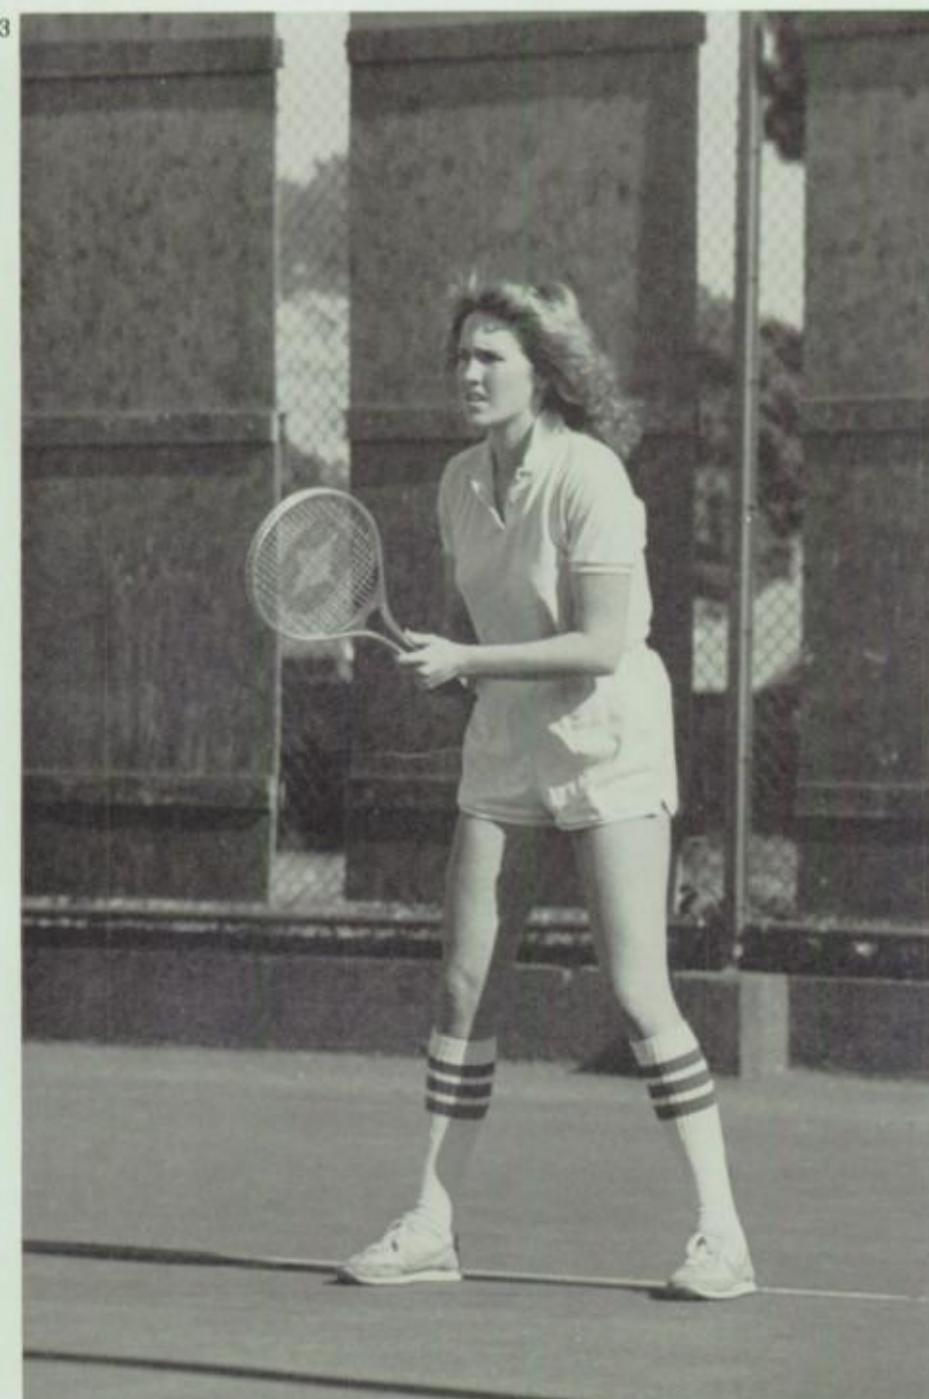

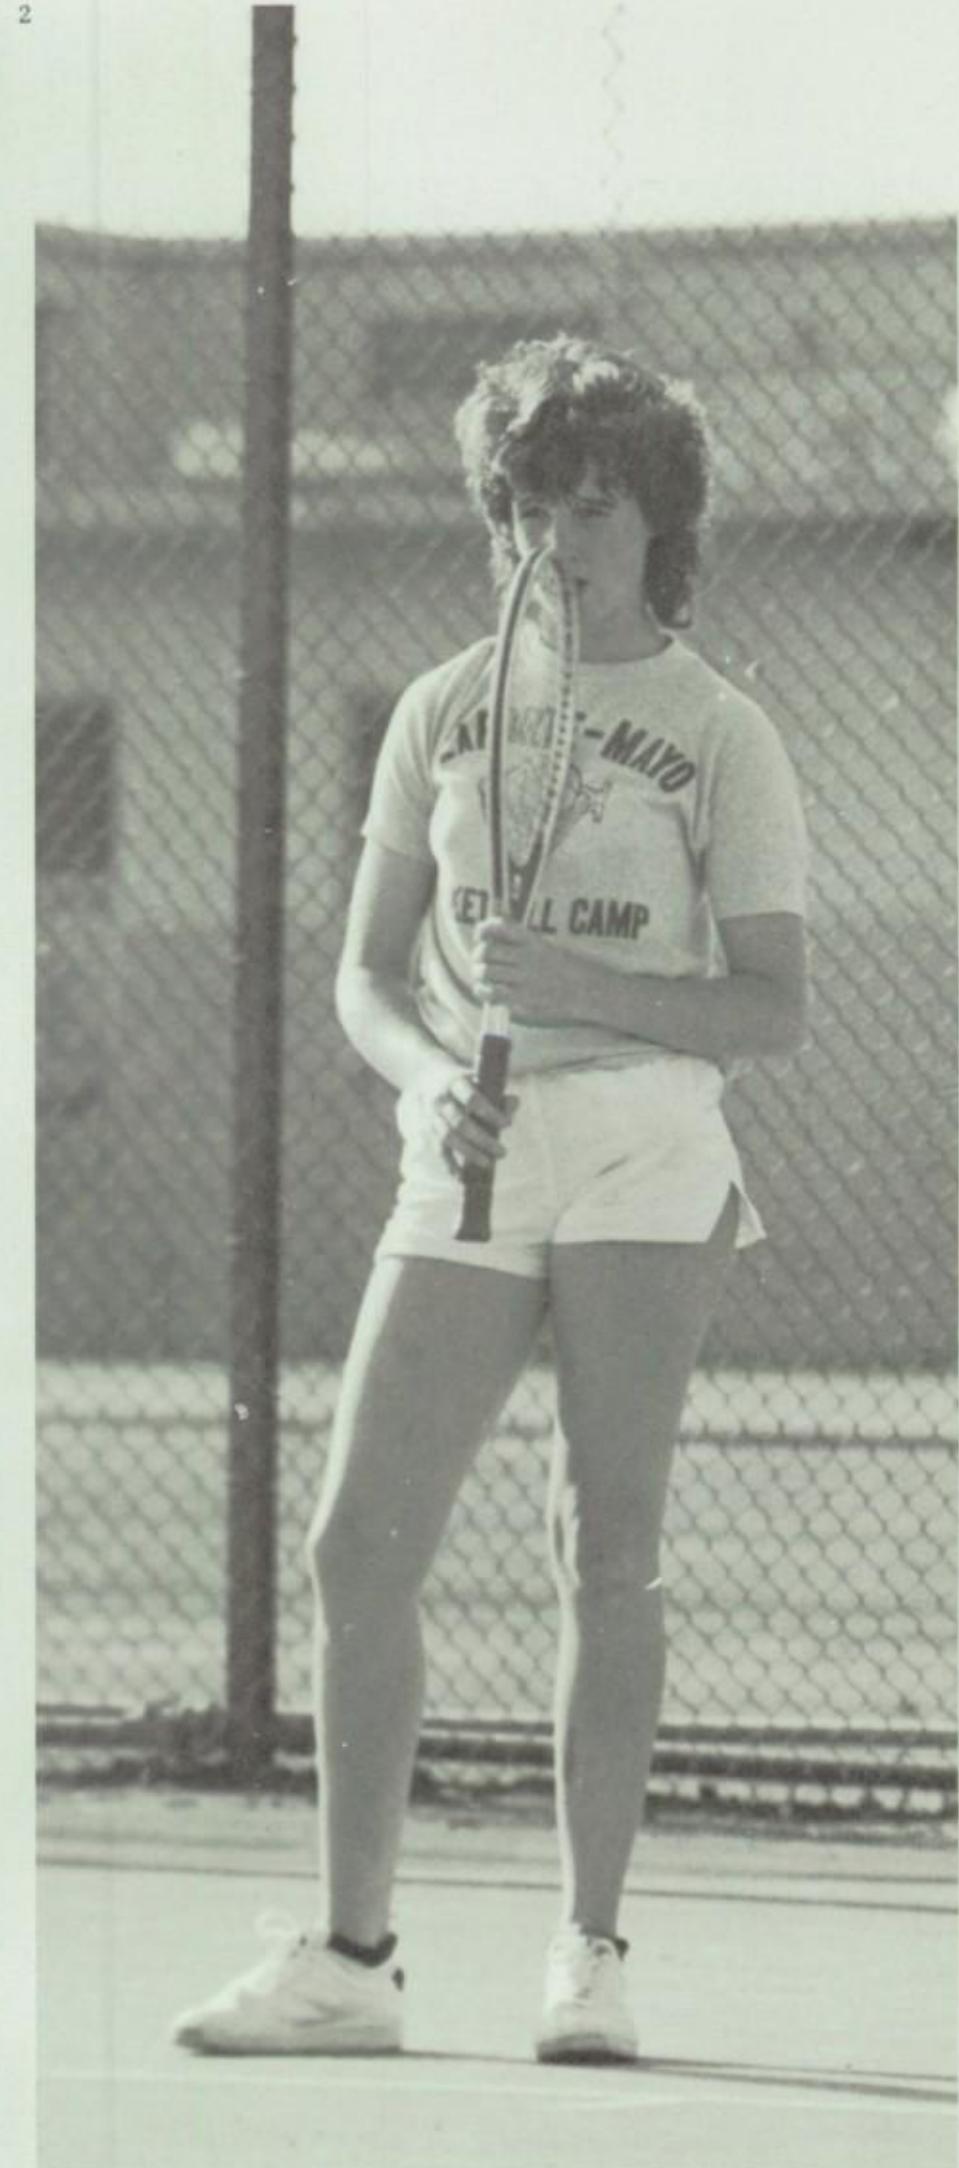

Walking by the tennis courts after school, one might have seen a group of girls practicing their strokes and racket strategies. This was the S.L. Tennis Team.

Practicing paid off, as the team finished third in the ACAL. Most Valuable player, Sue Cooper, went all the way to North Coast in singles. Two S.L. doubles teams represented the school at the playoffs. One of the doubles teams included Meg West (Most Inspirational) and Ann Jackson (Most Improved). The other was composed of Rachel Yeaman and Cheryl Cho.

TEAMWORK PAYS OFF

The girls' varsity basketball team used their talent for teamwork to pull off a winning season. Coach Bob During, pleased with the team's efforts, felt this quality particularly benefitted the team in league games.

The highlight of the season for the Pirates was their performance against Encinal. Marie Procita forced the first of two overtimes with a lay up that created a 57-57 tie. Ultimately, the Lady Pirates lost by two. Losing to an undefeated team by such a small margin after almost pulling it out, was truly a fine effort.

Much of the credit for the team's success must go to Coach During. Senior Janay Duey expressed her feelings, and those of most of the members of the team: "Mr. During was a good coach and friend." Jennifer Tayco, a senior who played for Pacific the past three years, said, "I never thought that S.L. and Pacific could combine into one team and play together," through the efforts of the entire team and the coaching staff, the girls' varsity basketball team had a season to be proud of.

JV GIRLS PUT BEST FOOT FORWARD

At 6:30 in the morning, while many of us were at home sleeping, the Junior Varsity girls basketball team could be found in the gym practicing for a successful 1984 season. Coaching the girls was Jeff During, Coach Bob During's son. Jeff taught them how to work together as a team. As a result, most agreed they had improved their skills. The team did not have one superstar, but, instead, was well balanced with such high scorers as Linda Granger, Sonja Hernandez, Meredith Brown, and Jeanette Melcher, who was also the team's leading rebounder.

BOYS' HAVE EXCELLENT SEASON

This year's Pirate Varsity Basketball team was characterized by hustle, determination and enthusiasm. All of their hard work paid off when they finished with a league record of 6 wins 3 losses. Although they lost to their new rivals the Piedmont Highlanders, every player realized his role and performed it to the best of his ability. Both team work and individual talent were needed to make a season of long, hard practices worthwhile. Every player pulled for the team to get a playoff berth in the ACAL. Jeff Knorr described the team well: "Because of an overwhelming abundance of talent it was obvious that the team was after the ACAL title." This talent carried the Pirates past Harry Ells in the first round of the playoffs with a score of 62-48, and past Piedmont twice to capture the ACAL title.

Gary Volpa commented, "Considering the stiff competition we faced we had an outstanding season."

PIRATES MOVE PAST OPPONENTS

Although the end of their season was marred by injuries, the girls' soccer team got off to an excellent start, finishing higher than in the two previous years. The Pirates ended with an impressive record of 6 wins, 4 losses, and 3 ties.

The effects of hard practices, held daily and over Christmas vacation, were evident throughout the season. The lady Pirates fought hard for every one of their wins and showed good sportsmanship when encountering a loss. The most difficult, yet most gratifying game proved to be the first match against Moreau which ended in a one-to-one tie. Recalling this particular game, Charmaine Martinez exulted, "I've been waiting for this since my Sophomore year, and it's finally come true."

The coaching was definitely a factor in the girls' progress. First year coach Chandra Patel covered basics at the beginning of the year, but soon advanced to tricky "Malaysian" moves and more involved tactics. Assistant coach Barnabe Jesus became known for his conditioning techniques (lot's of running!) and great team support from the sidelines.

Eva Navarro summed up the overall team feeling quite well: "Not only did we have a winning season and improve a lot, we also had lots of fun." As the season came to an end, Coach Patel reflected upon the year. "So close and yet so far." With the way this young team advanced, they will be league champs in no time at all.

BOYS' FIRST SEASON SUCCESSFUL

The first day of tryouts for the boys' soccer team affirmed the fact that this team would be successful. Not only were there numerous soccer players present, they were eager to begin the season.

1984, the debut season of the team, brought many challenges. Team jerseys and sweats needed to be ordered, a larger field had to be measured and chalked, and all the details which help to make the season move smoothly had to be attended to. With all of these concerns, pressure was not put on the Pirates to capture first place in their first year. Though their record of 3 wins, 4 losses, and 1 tie seemed satisfactory, it was deceiving. In the league games which they lost, all but one were defeats by only one point, a fact which was not reflected in their record. As Larry Collins so aptly put it, "Since we were a new team with mostly sophomores, I was surprised that we could compete with the other, more experienced teams." Not only did the boy's team compete with the others, they put up tough fights and, in fact, won 3 of their last 4 games.

SOFTBALL IS SMASH HIT

In the first year of consolidation, hard work, long hours of practice and hopes of victory pushed the Varsity Softball team towards excellence. "We had to get used to playing together after being rivals for so long, but things went really smoothly, and we played well together," commented Wendy Snyder. Under the coaching of Bob During, the Pirates hoped to go far. When asked how the coach dealt with the consolidation, pitcher Shirley Zarley replied, "He has been experimenting and measuring our abilities and finding out where we play best."

J.V. GIRLS SLIDE BY HUSKIES

This year's Girls' J.V. Softball team was comprised of young, talented athletes with an abundance of determination. When the season began, Coach Marianne Duncan was very positive about the girls' attitudes toward each other and the sport. The players realized that the key to the season was lots and lots of practice.

The team began their climb to the top by winning their first three games. The most crushing victory was the 28-3 romp against the Washington Huskies.

TRACK SPRINTS TO TOP

When February came around, it was time for track stars to get the old spikes out of the garage and start preparing for a successful 1984 season.

Coaches Tom Linda, Pat Doohan, and Sarah Gallager each had their speciality in coaching the sprinters, the distance runners, and the field events. They worked out a conditioning program which included an abundance of running and weightlifting.

In addition to dedicating hours to running track, the team held a shot-put-a-thon to raise money for new track equipment.

It's little I care what path I take,
And where it leads it's little I care;
But out of this school, lest my heart break,
I must go, and off somewhere.

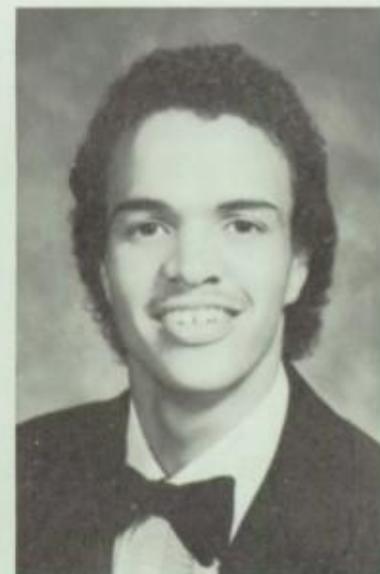

It's little I know what's in my heart,
What's in my mind it's little I know,
But there's that in me must up and start,
And it's little I care where my feet go.

PIRATES BURN UP THE ICE

A new tradition was brought to San Leandro High on Friday, December 16, 1983 in the form of a Senior Ice Skate. Approximately 75 seniors and underclassmen gathered at 7:30 to indulge their favorite ice antics. Although the skating Pirates took a few spills, everyone cut a fine figure on the ice and a good time was had by all.

THIS PAGE: 1/Hopeful of competing in the 1988 Olympics, Mike Quintel plans his next spectacular sequence of stunts. 2/Rod Blomquist examines the rink before indulging in the antics.

3/Leandra Drayer wishes she had never accepted Randy Akers' invitation to skate.

OPPOSITE PAGE: 1/Ann Jackson relaxes her cold weary legs. 2/Julie Nordeen gets pleasure out of watching rookie Teresa Gilmete try to hold her balance.

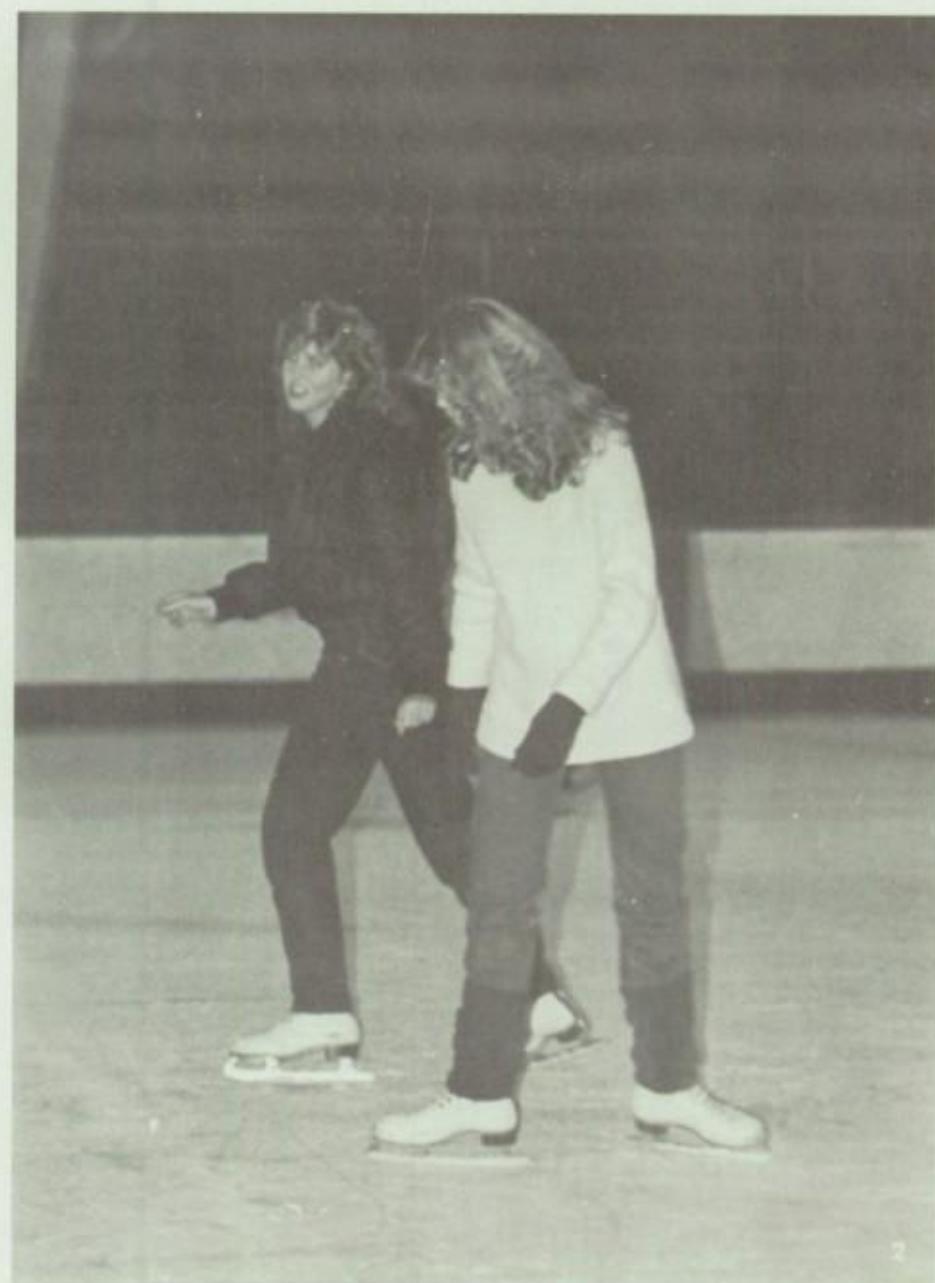

3/Junior Teresa Selph, enjoys skating with the upperclassmen. 4/Anxious to get on the ice, Greg Vitz, Spiros Kolomovotos, and Phil Rettig, frantically tie their skates.

1/Stenar Kvifte imagines skating on a lake in Norway.
2/Fred Harlan, Joyce Rutledge, Julie Nordeen, and Mike
Quintel pair up for a good time on the ice.
3/Balance is the key for expert skating, and Pat Kirby and Spiros Kolomvotos teach Leslie Dennis this important fact.
4/Senior Danny Allen, rubs the ice for much needed energy.

On February 14th, the senior breakfast and bowl was held at Mel's Bowl in Alameda. Forty-five weary seniors showed up, some in their pajamas, to bring an old rivalry back to life. Doug Miller represented S.L. and Danny Allen represented Pacific. The winner was S.L. with a score of 183-139.

Although attendance at the Breakfast and Bowl was the lowest in ten years, those who were there will remember the good time they shared with their friends on that special morning.

1/Sleepy-eyed Teri Trujillo naps after a good breakfast.
2/Thinking about her score of 16, Pam Snyder cannot control her laugh.
3/Thumbs up for Eugene Poulin who scores a strike.
4/Suzie Coralejo, Michelle Nelson, Lisa Lewis, and Julie Misrak discuss the particles wandering aimlessly through their eggs.

OLD RIVALS BECOME NEW FRIENDS AT BOWL

1/Mickey Temple, Ginger McCollum, Tammy Hamilton, Amy Smith, and Teresa Quadros discuss scoring techniques.

2/Julie Misrack shows Michelle Nelson the way to throw the bowling ball without breaking her nails.

1/Pam Snyder, Michelle Kinder, Kathy Domingo, Joyce Rutledge, and James Tom prepare for the journey home.

2/Mel asks senior Mark Goozen, "sausage or bacon?"

3/James Tom helps himself to Patrick Lee's toast as Kathy Domingo hungrily devours her eggs.

4/Amateur Theresa Gilmete practices for a future pre-bowler's tour.

5/Mike Quintel feels the fury as his bowling ball prepares for its journey down the lane.

JENNIFER TAYCO, who was named Outstanding Senior in Physical Education, enjoyed most playing softball. She has been involved in sports since the fifth grade. In her junior and senior years she was named to the Alameda County All-League team. Jennifer's favorite class was her ROP course in Data Processing and she planned to continue her studies at Chabot College after graduation. When not processing data or playing sports Jenny liked to party with all her friends.

The most valuable player in football for 1983 was quarterback JESSE GALLEGO'S who was also selected Outstanding Senior in P.E. Jesse played baseball and was recognized for his football abilities with such awards as Football All-League, Honorable Mention in 1982. The most important people in Jesse's life were Lynsey Arieta because, "she inspires me to excel in everything I do," and Coach Tom Linda, in whom Jesse found a good friend. After graduation Jesse would like to attend Chabot for two years and then transfer to a University to major in physical education.

Not only did RACHEL YEAMAN, Outstanding Senior in P.E., excel athletically, she shone academically as well. Her involvement in sports was extensive as she played softball, soccer, basketball, tennis, and track; she was named Most Valuable Player three times, twice in track and once in tennis, as well as Most Improved in basketball in her junior year. UC Berkeley, Harvey Mudd, or Stanford were possible college choices for Rachel, who planned to study either mathematics or computer science. Outside activities included playing the piano and participating in Job's Daughters in which Rachel was a Past Honor Queen.

OUTSTANDING SENIORS SHINE

LORA LEE was named outstanding senior in the fields of English and social studies. Lora had the terrific ability to enjoy a great time with her friends while finding the time to study and get excellent marks. Lora was proud of the fact that she had the ability to outlast the clock when it came to all-night studying. In her spare time, Lora enjoyed tennis, jogging, eating, listening to music, and doing volunteer work for the city of San Leandro.

Lora, a semi-finalist in the National Merit Scholarship contest, was accepted to the University of California at Berkeley where she will study business administration.

Family support and understanding assisted RUBY WONG, in achieving the honor of being named outstanding senior in the Business Education department. Ruby, accepted by the University of California at Berkeley, planned to work toward a BA in Business Administration. In her senior year, Ruby was involved in CSF, Interact, and the Asian Club.

SENIORS RECOGNIZED FOR EXCEPTIONAL ABILITIES

For her keen sense of imagination, JOSEY COBB was selected Outstanding Senior by the ART DEPARTMENT. Josey planned to pursue a career in commercial art at either CSU San Luis Obispo or CSU San Jose. She devoted her free time to using her air brush and playing the piano. Josey also ran for the track team and was voted Most Improved and Most Valuable in cross country. She claimed her mom, also an artist, as the most influential person in her life. Her mother, however, had not influenced Josey's style, "you have your own."

Enthusiastic thespian BILL BECKER was named Outstanding Senior for his talents in the field of dramatics. Bill has a lengthy list of characters to his credit. In high school, he played major roles in Mr. Robert's, My Fair Lady, Many Loves of Dobie Gillis, Fiddler on the Roof, Don't Drink the Water, MASH, and The Man Who Came to Dinner. Being involved in the college preparatory courses at San Leandro High, Bill rarely found a moment for himself. When he did, he liked to fish, write poetry, and, of course, act. After high school, Bill planned to major in Business at CSU Hayward and take Public Relations as a minor.

KELLY FLETCHER, who was named Outstanding Senior by both the Math and Science Departments, has been accepted to Berkeley in the Engineering Department. Since the seventh grade, Kelly had kept a 4.0 grade point average. He had won many awards, including the National Merit semi-finalist award and a third place scholarship for Engineering. When not striving for superior grades and winning awards, Kelly enjoyed playing the trumpet, working on computers, studying astronomy, and backpacking.

Determination to reach her goals no doubt helped TINA OFMAN become the Outstanding Senior in the Science and Creative Arts Departments. Tina served as president of the 4-H Club and was a volunteer for the City of San Leandro. In addition, she participated in various school activities, including CSF and the International Club, and played basketball, volleyball, and softball. Tina will study pre-med at either UC Berkeley or Smith in preparation for a career as an orthopedic surgeon.

The shock of being chosen Outstanding Senior in the Foreign Language Department (French) did not slow JACK WANG down in his studies in the field of civil engineering on the UC Berkeley campus. In his senior year, Jack was a member of CSF, the student senate, the Asian Club, and the varsity track team. Every now and then - when Jack found a few minutes - he liked to play basketball, baseball, and attend an occasional movie.

DAMON LEE was chosen Outstanding Senior by the Science Department. In his senior year, Damon attended the University of California at Berkeley to study Calculus. In September, Damon plans to attend Berkeley full time as a student in the electrical engineering department. At school, Damon was involved in CSF, The Honor Problem Solving Class, and the Mathlete International Club. Damon enjoyed, in his spare time, working with electronics and computers.

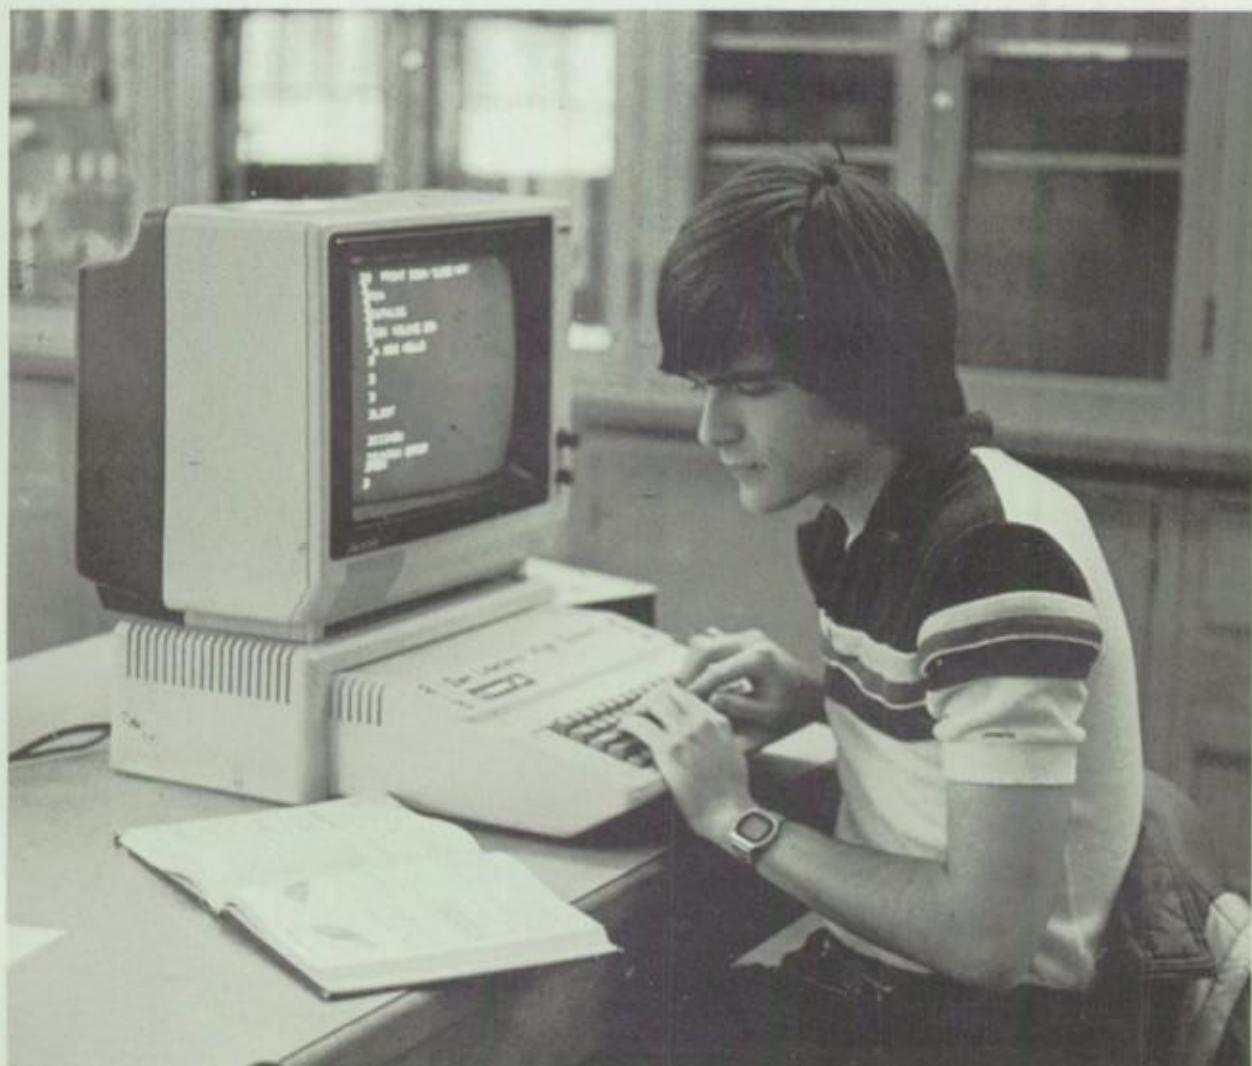

DAVE HANSON, named outstanding Senior by the Industrial Arts Department, planned to join the Navy and study electronics because his favorite course of study at San Leandro High was electronics. When Dave was not working at KMART, or studying, he enjoyed photography, reading, and visiting San Francisco.

"Getting an 'A' in Mrs. Halland's 12H English class" was what Outstanding Senior KRIS LUKER was most proud of. After graduation, Kris will attend UC Berkeley to study biochemistry in the hopes of one day becoming a biochemist. Reading is one of Kris' relaxing pastimes, as well as doing needlepoint dragons and working on her car, a MG Midget. Kris was "flabbergasted" upon learning of her selection as an Outstanding Senior by the English Department. She cited her mother as the most important person in her life because she encouraged her to get into Berkeley.

With a talent for languages, DONNA LOWE was recognized by both the Spanish and English Departments. When not studying, Donna enjoyed playing her clarinet and reading mystery novels, especially those by Agatha Christie. She named her mother as the most influential person in her life because she taught her the value of an education. Donna planned to attend UC Berkeley but was undecided as to her major.

SENIORS SHARE FUTURE PLANS

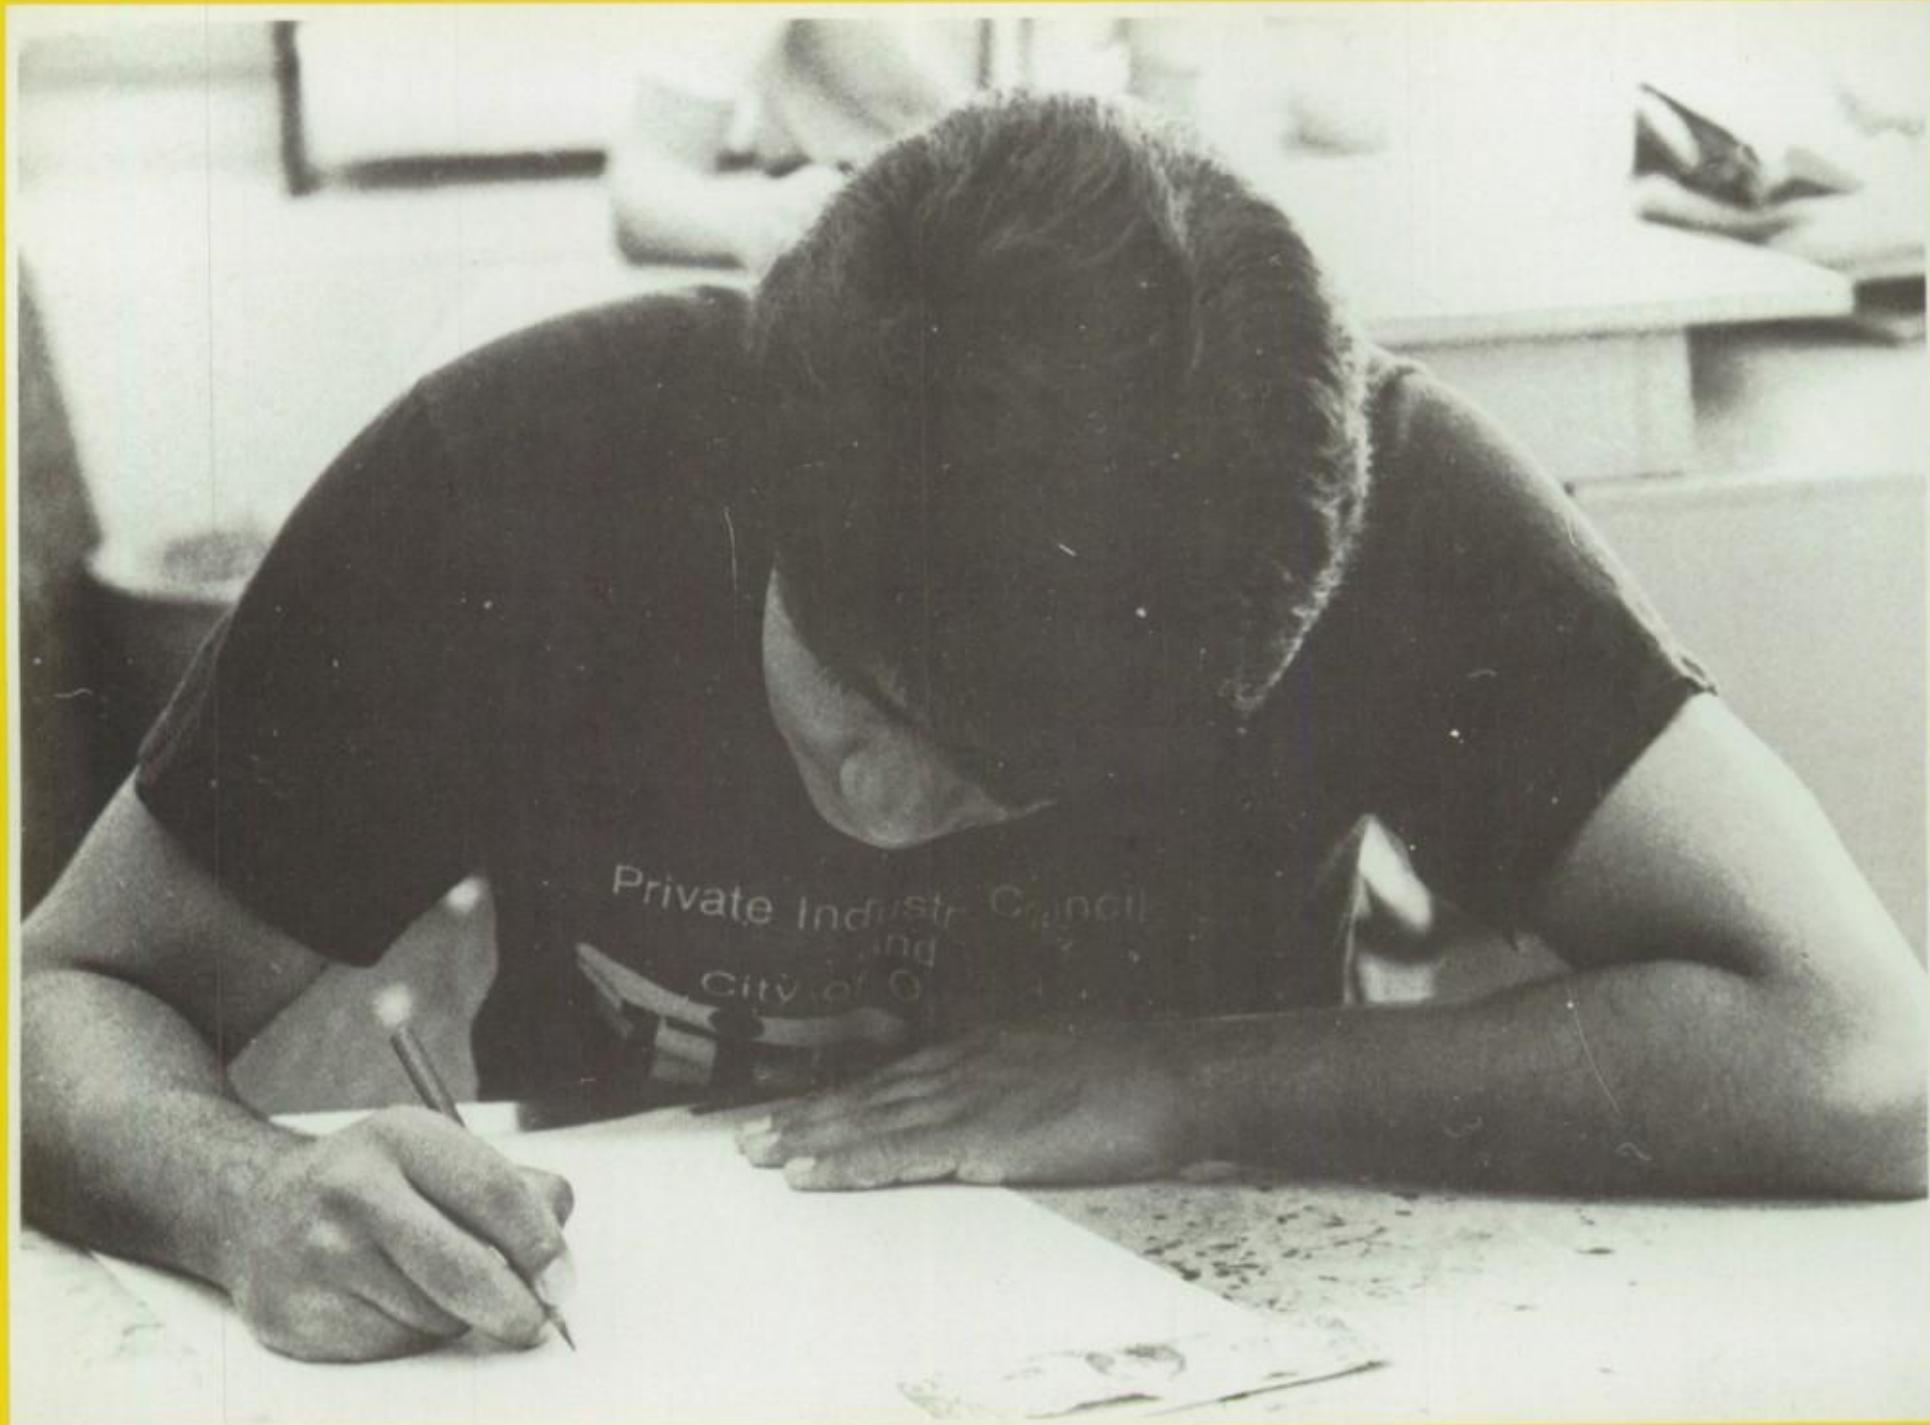

"Great. It's nice to be recognized." That was what Outstanding Senior SUSAN MENDES of the Home Economics Department had to say about the honor. Business Administration however, was what Susan's future study will be as she will pursue a career as an accountant. She was most proud of her grades and the fact that she had never gotten into trouble. Susan enjoyed reading romances and mysteries and participating in a Portuguese Family Club.

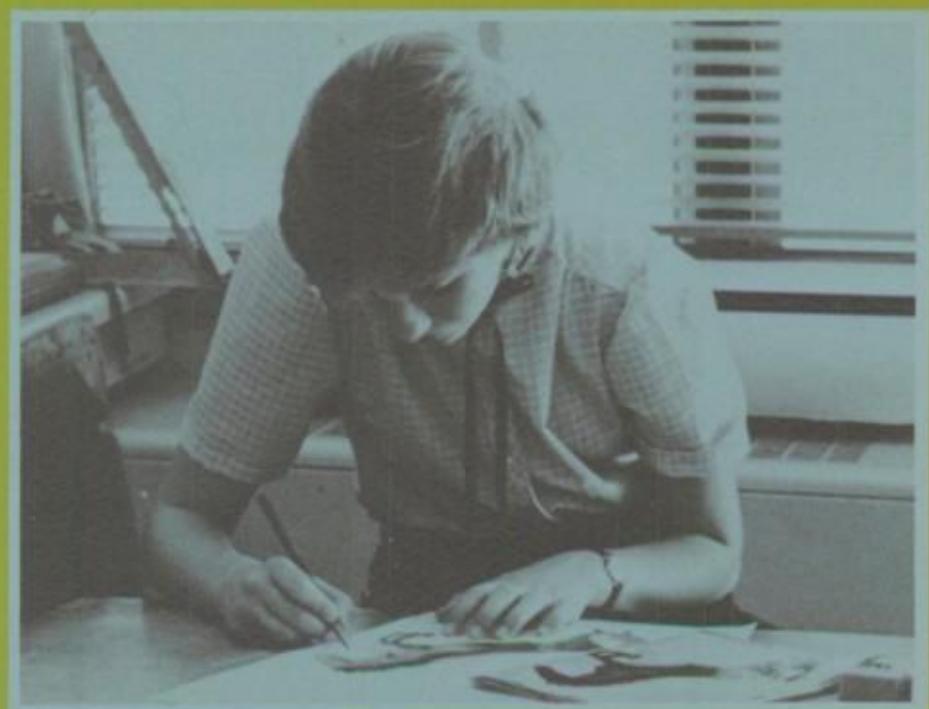

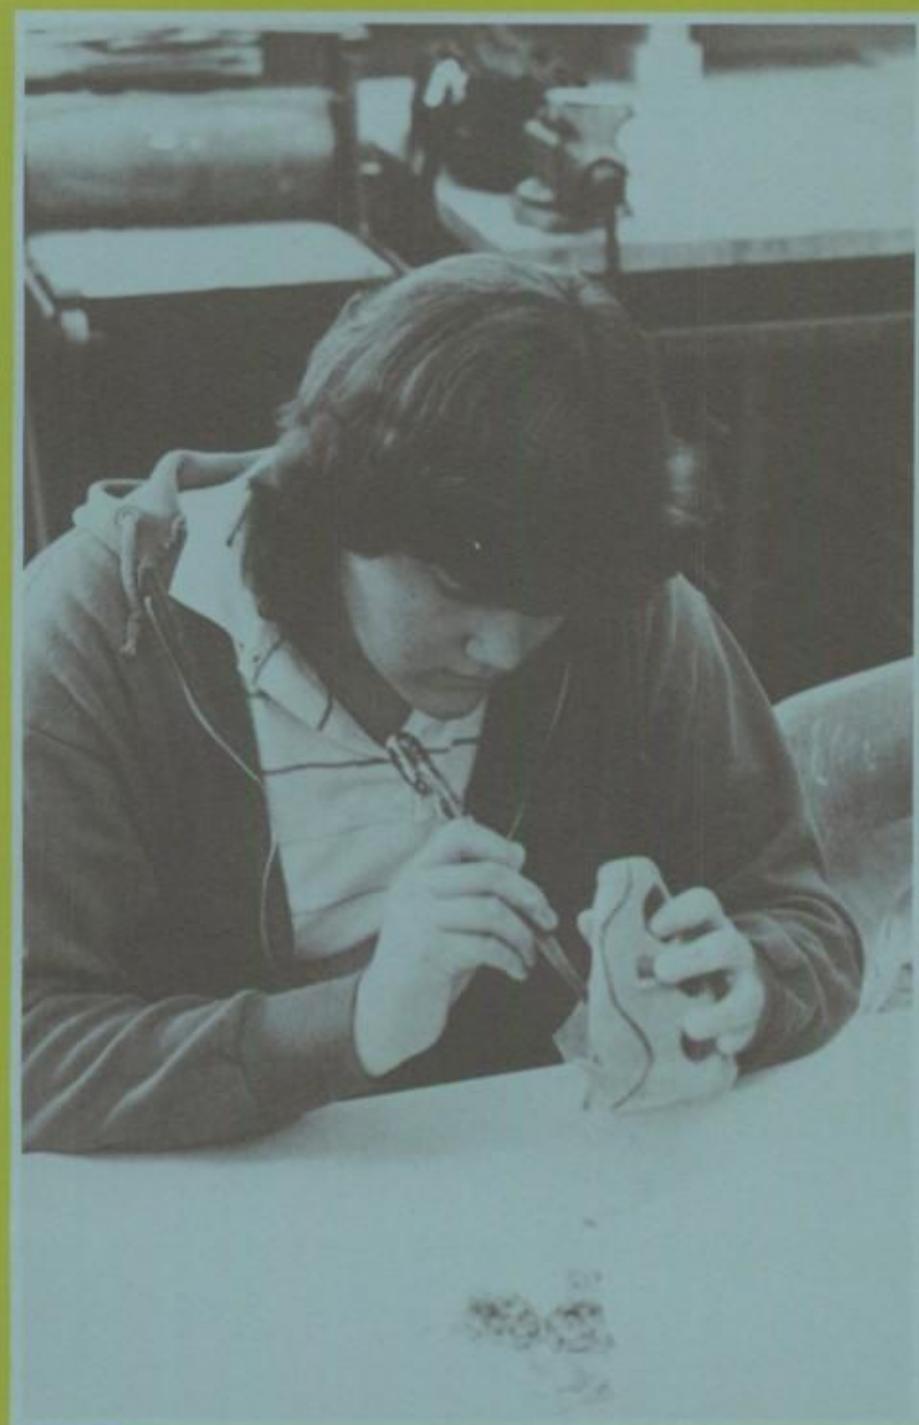

MARY DESTASI, who was also chosen Outstanding Senior in the Home Economics Department, enjoyed painting flowers, doing latch-hook work, bikeriding, and attending A's baseball games. Mary's plans included being an accountant and studying at CSU Hayward.

Over the years, her goals have been reinforced by her Uncle Tony who built her confidence and gave her encouragement.

Opening Night Audience

Don't be afraid.
I know they look like a jury out there.
But look beyond that.
Beyond the Mt. Rushmore like faces.
There are people out there.
Nice people.
Waiting to be entertained.
Ready to be dazzled.
You can make them laugh, or if you choose, make them cry.
You would not have gotten this far if you couldn't.
All of the hard work that went into perfecting your performance is now about to pay off.
Their applause will bring you more joy than you could find in the biggest, brightest, rainbow.
So relax.
And, by the way, break a leg!

Friendship

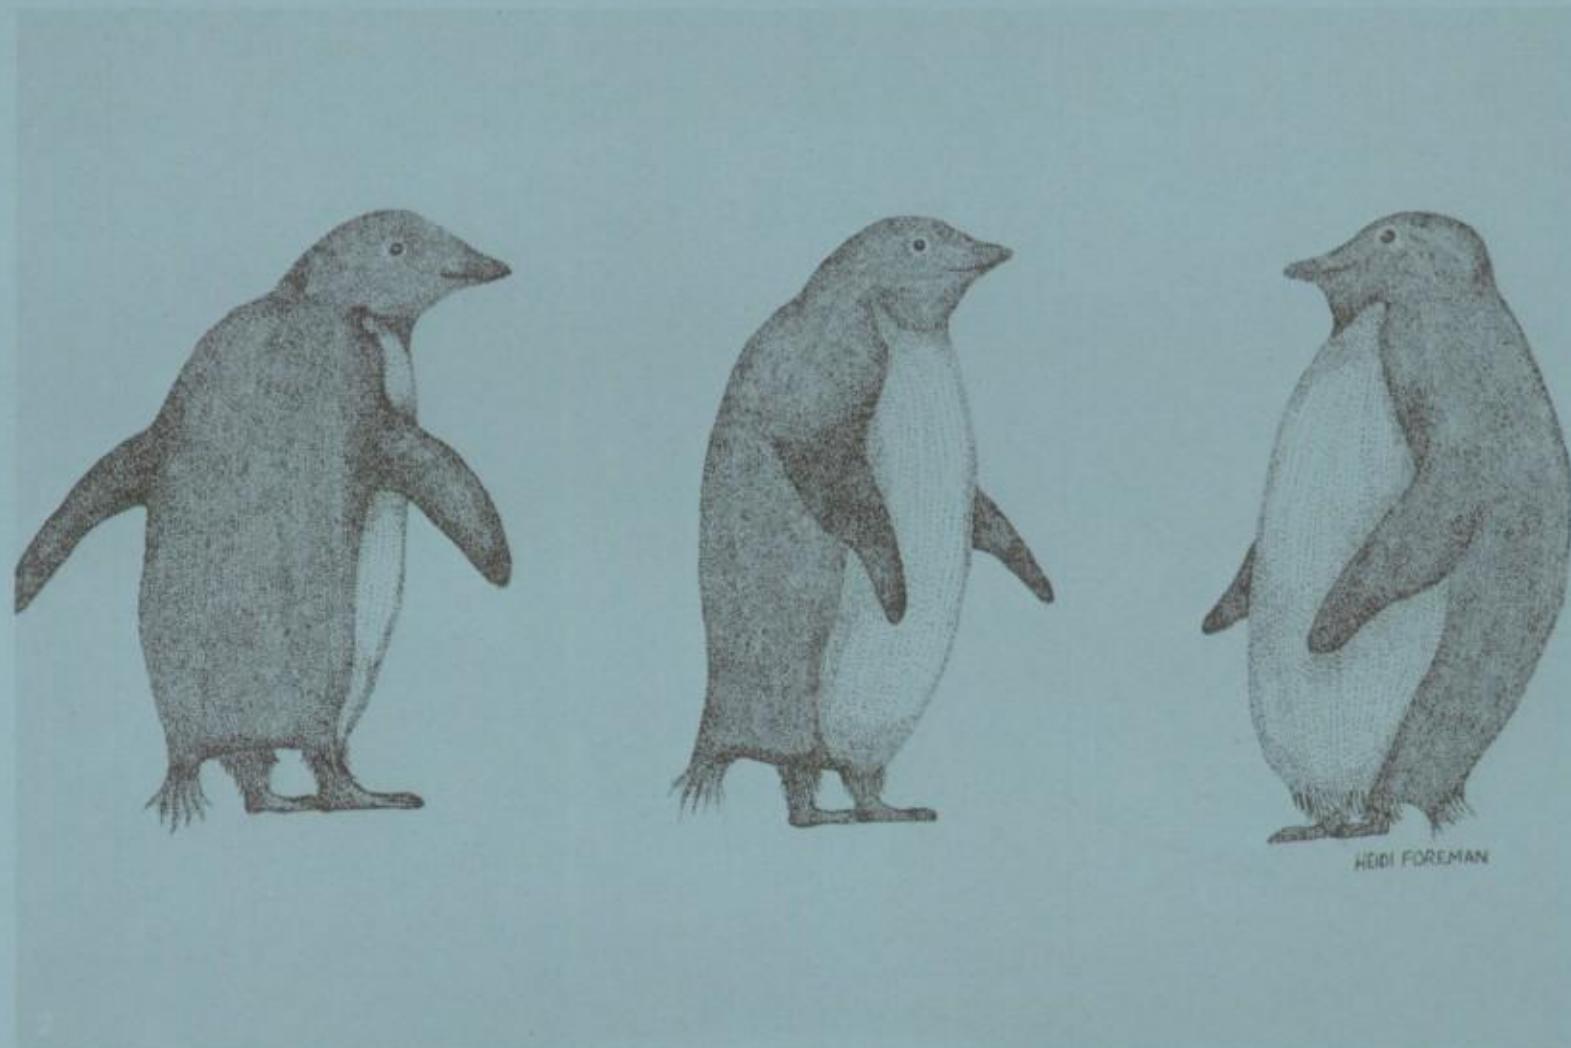

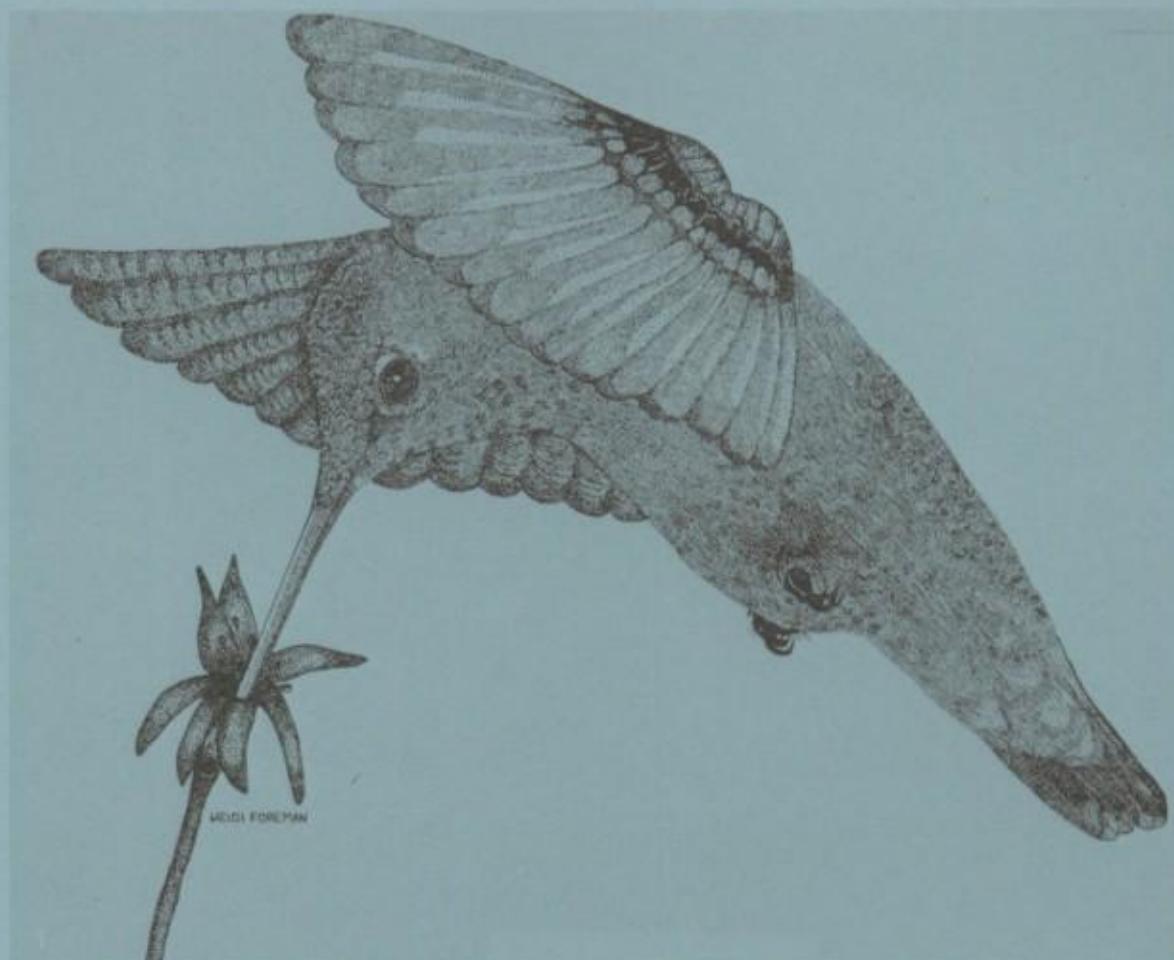

Friendship defies age and ignores distance.
It weathers the hard times and shares the good.
Together we have found this.
Our friendship has proved acceptance and understanding in a world that pushes people apart.
But I will always remain with the memories of the times we have shared, knowing how fortunate I am to be able to call you my friend!

To Laugh Together

Do you know how you confuse me?
It seems that you are actually two people,
One a lively, compassionate, talented comrade,
The other an arrogant, reckless loner.
Which are you now?
I have seen you laugh with other girls who are mutual friends. Why, then, haven't we laughed together?
Do you care that I spend sleepless nights wondering what you meant in your last words to me?
Do those flippant remarks express your true feelings?
How can you hold me and look at me the way you do when we dance and then not speak to me for hours?
Truthfully now, do you respect me for not compromising myself as you say you do?
Or do you mock me?
When I give up all hope and try to forget you, you begin to act as if you really do care about me.
Do you?
Tell me so.
I will tell you and then neither of us will ever feel alone again.
We can laugh together, forever.
Take my hand, I'll take yours, be my strength, I'll be yours.
We don't need to start over, we just need to stop being afraid.
Hand in hand we will confront all of our fears.
When this is done we can laugh together forever.

Jennifer Johnson

Like A Rainbow

When we were introduced,
I was overwhelmed
It was like viewing a rainbow
For the very first time.

As we got closer,
I discovered your many qualities.
Each was defined
But magnificently blended together,
Like the colors in a rainbow.

But as the weeks passed,
I realized that you would always be
Just out of my reach,
Like a tantalizing rainbow.

A Friend Is A Special Gift

A friend is a special gift,
Someone who's always near,
Someone who will laugh with you,
Someone who shares your tears.

A friend will always comfort you
When you are feeling sad
She'll always try to lift you up
To try to make you glad.

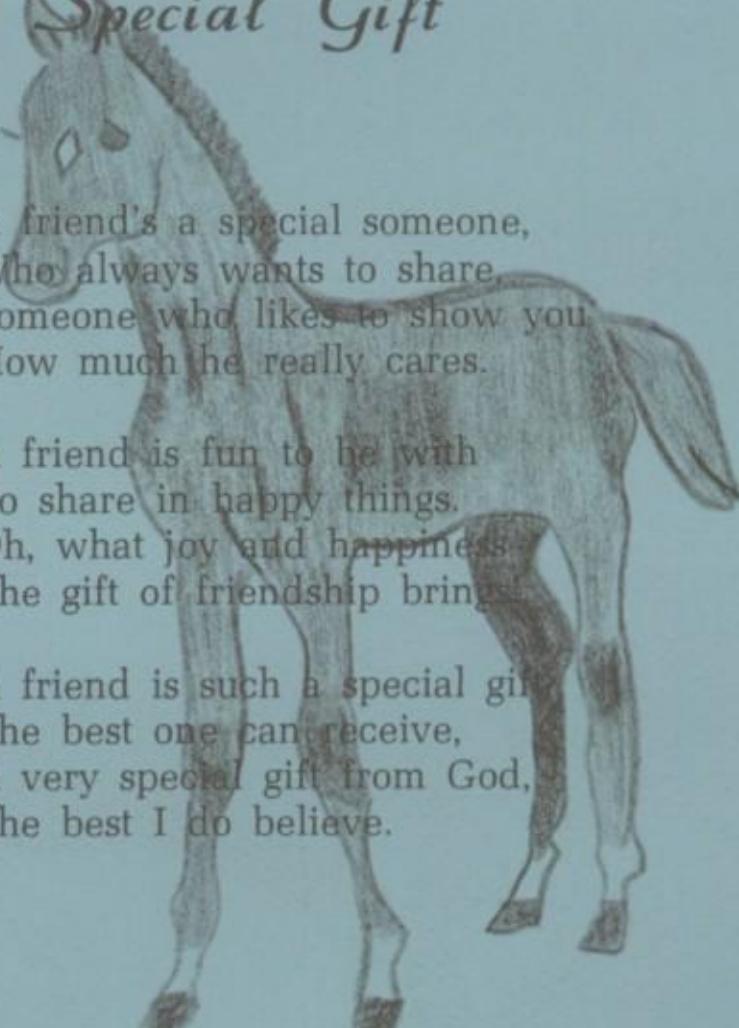

A friend gives you encouragement
To help you through the day.
She'll always be there by your side,
She'll be there all the way.

A friend's a special someone,
Who always wants to share,
Someone who likes to show you
How much he really cares.

A friend is fun to be with
To share in happy things.
Oh, what joy and happiness
The gift of friendship brings.

A friend is such a special gift
The best one can receive,
A very special gift from God,
The best I do believe.

Tell me you understand and care

Praise me with your love and thoughtfulness
And I will forever be free
And I will forever be happy
And I will forever be thankful
And most of all, I will forever love you.

Her

Feelings capped and kept inside;
there must be something there to hide;
Emotions you will not let surface,
It's hard to understand the purpose.

Deceiving friend and foe alike,
Just to show your "inner might;"
but your attempts will not prevail,
You cover up to no avail.

A clear blue sky, gradually becoming tinted
With the pale oranges and yellows of dusk
The sun slowly sinking amongst
Silver-illuminated clouds
The end of a beautiful day
But as the sun slowly turns to brilliant orange
I can feel the soft summer breeze against my cheek
And the coolness of the night closing in
Gentle waves gurgle as they softly touch our boat
Our boat is wooden and crude
Not a glittering, gleaming hunk of metal
Not a millionaires pride
Our boat is real, and we are real
Sailing along, I can see the moon
Slowly rising over a distant hill
Brilliantly glowing
Then - silently one by one
In the infinite meadows of heaven
Blossomed the lovely stars
The forget-me-nots of the angels.

Krista Tanquary

'Cause I can see right through your shade,
and I was made how you were made,
but long ago I saw the light:
"To hide is wrong, to show is right."

But you won't change, you never could;
You'll bottle your thoughts as I thought you would,
You'll lie and cheat right to the end,
Your wrongful ways you will not mend.

So I must make it widely known the secretiveness you have shown,
and maybe then you'll change your ways
so you won't burn on Judgement Day, and I can brag to my delight,

"I knew her in the other life!"

Crystal Heights

Had a dream last night,
Took an icy trip with the snow queen to the Crystal heights of pleasure.
A place of visions-
Reality and fantasy both equally shared;
Both equally compared.

She came in the middle of the night-
Woke me from my sleep, woken from my dreams
Or so it seemed.
She beckoned me to follow her.
She came surrounded by a brilliant white light
Looking as though she were a star that fell from
The dark of the night.
She waved her hand and spoke to say
"Come with me, follow me to another day
Through a sort of promise land".

Yeah, I had a dream last night-
Took an icy trip with the snow queen
To the crystal heights of pleasure.

A place where my thoughts and feelings were intertwined
My hopes, fears, and desires were all there
All the same.
Took a look into my inner mind,
Had I found the key to the universe-
Or just to my sanity ...

The queen spoke to me once more
"Now that you have reached the crystal heights of Pleasure, stay at your leisure,
For if you want to go back it is quite a chore".

She took me by the arm and said,
"Do not worry, I'll do you no harm.
I see they have warned you,
Some say I am the elusive truth
Then there are others who say I am corrupt, and followed by deceit
But those who speak this way only know defeat.
Afraid to take a chance ...
afraid even of this very day."

Her beauty was stunning, overwhelming ...
I was awed by the mystique of this strange, forbidden place.

Ice palaces reaching towards the sky,
everything white and glistening-
as diamonds in the sky.

The visions that I was seeing,
the reality that was quickly fleeing
And I had no reason to ask why.

She looked deep into my eyes laughing a questionable laugh
"You like it here - have no fear for each night
I'll come and take you away to palaces of snow and ice
And you'll have no reason to think twice.

Something that my conscious was fighting for me to understand-
Heard the voices of the damned whispering
"The price you pay tomorrow will be more than today
And it will never be too high to pay for the Height of ecstasy"

"Alas, it is time for you to go back
There is a hidden purpose in all that is said and unsaid.
Come away with me anytime,
Just as long as you understand the crime.
In case you were wondering,
I fill your head with forbidden thoughts."

Last night I took a trip with a snow queen
To the icy, crystal heights of pleasure-
To a place of visions.
Where reality and fantasy are equally compared.
Coming from deep in the night,
guiding me as a silver light
She handed me a key-
But it remains to be questioned-
Is it the key to the universe,
Or just my sanity???

Thoughts

Lying here without a friend,
I feel as if I near the end.
Enemies are all I see;
My world is closing in one me.

Somehow I feel that I'm to blame,
I am the cause of my own shame;
If only there was someone there
Who'd listen close and really care,

To the things that trouble me —
The maelstrom that won't let me be.

An unsuccessful search for truth is consuming all my youth, for once I savored every breath and now my thoughts are prayers of death.

Maybe when I close my eyes
God will take me to the sky,
but there's no God, so I can tell
I'm doomed to suffering in this hell.

People try to give me aid,
I wish that they would fade away into a prison like my own
so that they too will be alone,

And then they'll really know the truth,
they'll pray for death just as I do,
and when they finally reach their end,
I will have my last revenge.

Waves

I sit on the sand
watching the line of the shore, staring at the great wide ocean troubles are even worse than before.
Then way out yonder I'll see a light,
and my hope will be regained,
all nations will have come together,
things will have changed.

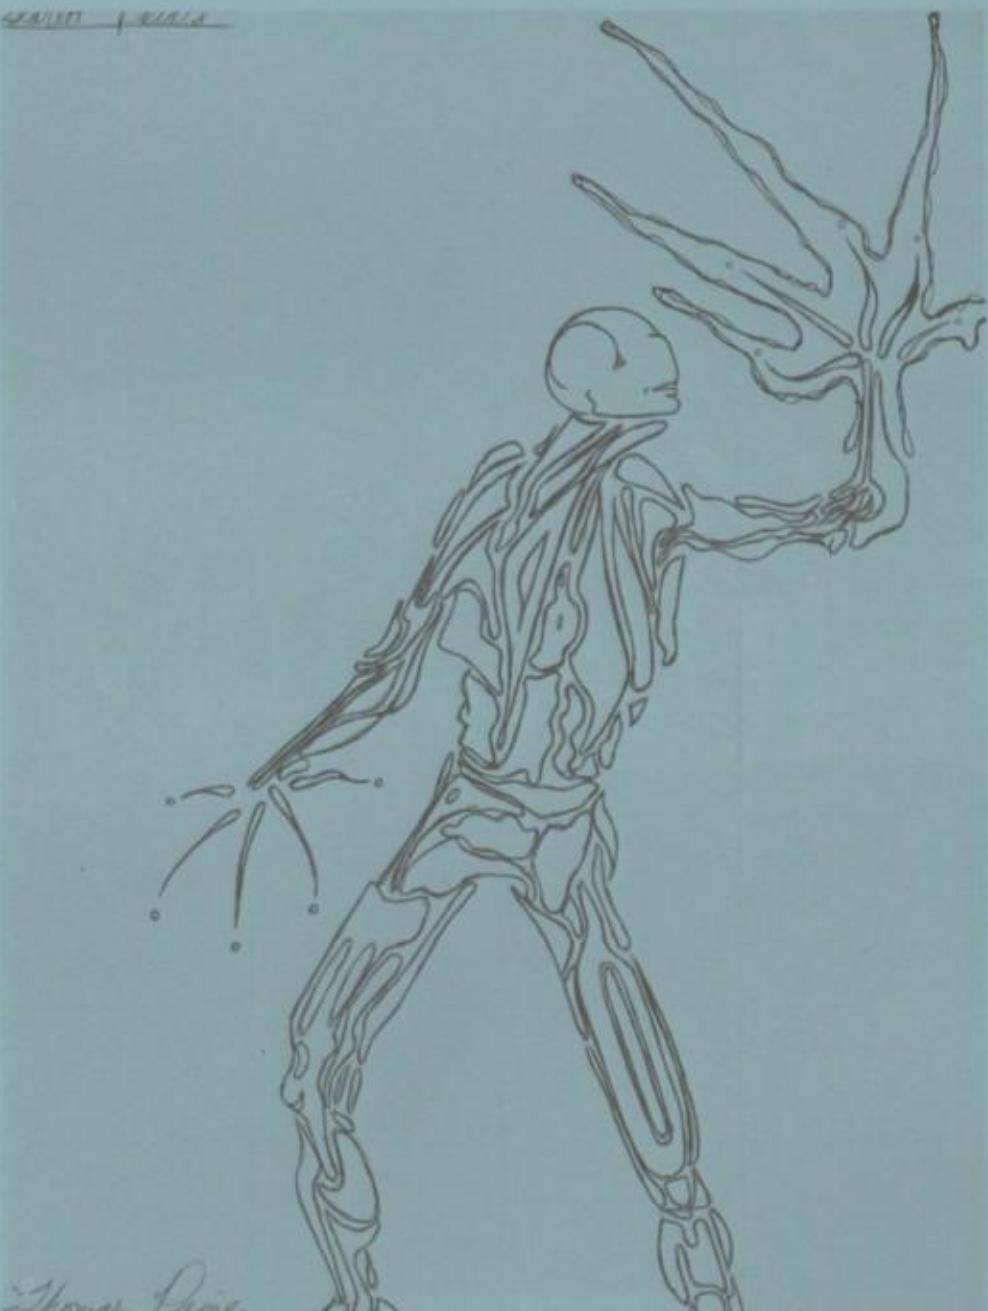

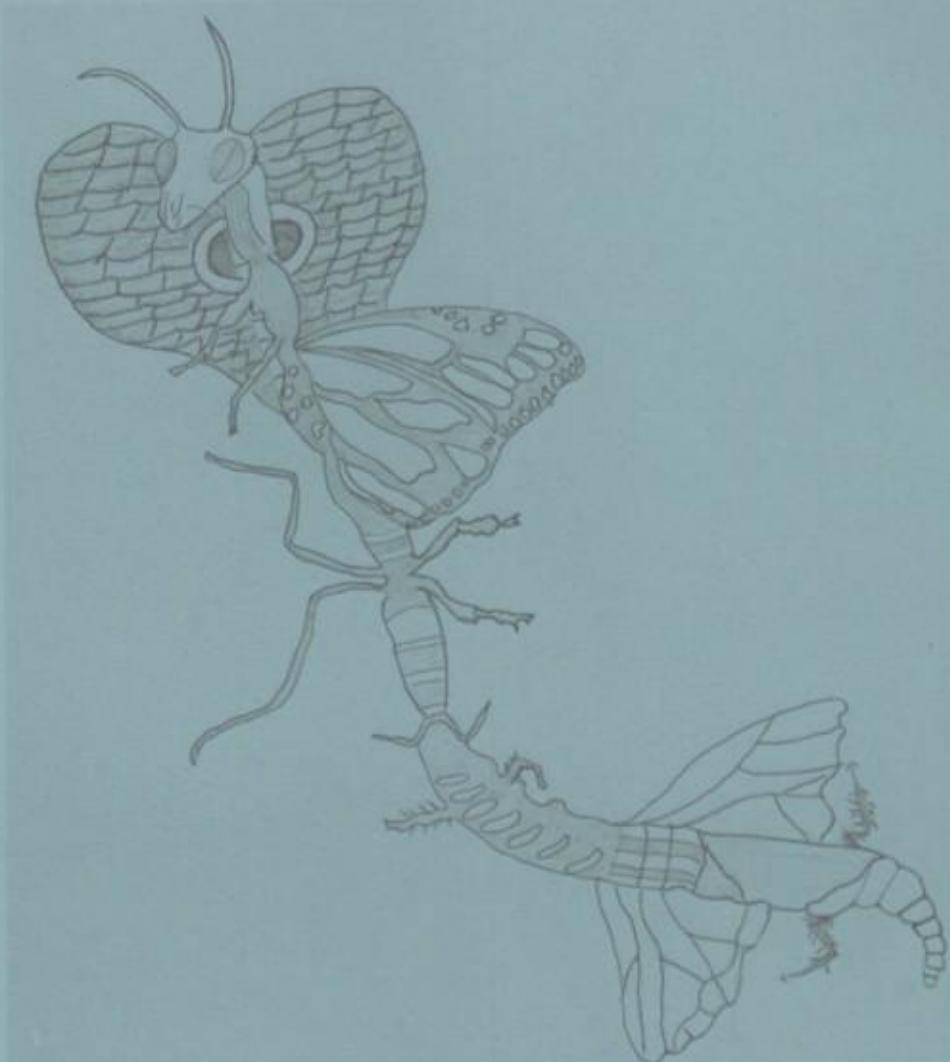

Then I wake up and it's only a dream,
reality comes back.
I look out my window at a world,
where peace and serenity lack.
I see people who have no more love inside,
they're too busy lookin out for themselves trying to find a place to hide.

Seeing this makes me wonder.
Is it worth it all?
If I cried for help
would anyone hear me call?
So I go out to the beach
and look out into the sea,
it's almost as if the waves
are calling to me.

I hear a voice from the waves of the sea,
they're whispering in my ear,
come along with me,
and as they take my hand and pull me away
the beach gets smaller and suddenly it all fades away.

The Locker

I walk down the dismal hall
I see my locker on the wall.
I open up my locker door
and all my books fell on the floor.
I pick them up and put them in,
and all my books fell out again.
I put in my books and walked away,
Til I came to school the very next day.
I opened up my locker and once more,
All my books fell on the floor.
All the books slid all about.
I was so mad I wanted to shout.
I'm so sick of all this stuff,
I'm going to blow the damn thing up.
I stuck some dynamite in the door,
My locker now is there no more.

Friend

I don't know where I'm going but I do know where I've been.
It's a long and rocky road,
that I'll travel 'til the end.

I've never been there before but it sounds like paradise, and I'd like to go there with you for the rest of my life.

Over the mountains is a sky of bright blue and a sun that shines forever in a day.
It's a place made for dreamers,
and where dreams often come true.
I will take you with me on my way.

Nothing better than a friend
to help along the way, to be with every day
just to be there.

When I first met you, you seemed so bright.
That your face glowed of happiness all around.
Then you had your troubles and I was always there.
look at the friendship we've found.

If I should see you
I'll offer you my hand and we'll walk that road together to the promised land.

EXCHANGE STUDENTS ABSORB NEW CULTURE

What could be more interesting than learning about people from foreign countries first hand? San Leandro high school students were given such an opportunity when two boys from Norway, Jardar Flas and Steinar Kvifte, came to town this past summer. Both agreed that it was easier to get good grades in America, as Norwegian schools require more classes. Rallies and football games remained quite foreign to them, not only because "Football" is soccer in Norway, but because cheerleaders do not exist in their country. Nevertheless, Steinar and Jardar (affectionately known to their friends as Sting and Jeff) became involved in school activities by attending dances, football and basketball games and playing varsity soccer. When Stein was asked his favorite thing about the United States, he replied, "The people are great, friendly and easy to talk to." Those students who became better acquainted with the pair would agree that they were as friendly and open as the Americans they admired.

"Yearbooking" began for us three years ago. Since then, we have come to know just how important a yearbook is. It's something to take out years from now to trigger the good memories.

Consolidation of the two high schools brought about much anxiety and hostility. We had to present both sides of San Leandro and yet we couldn't take sides. "A New Beginning" is our way of saying, "Hey, we made it work, we started fresh and ended triumphant."

No one knows better than an editor what it takes to put a yearbook together. Experience, technique and creativity are important but a person must also have the drive, the motivation to succeed. Our small staff of fourteen, the creators of our yearbook, now realize that Yearbook isn't as easy as it looks. Our staffers learned quickly and showed the devotion needed to get the job done. To this staff, our 1984 yearbook family, we dedicate this New Beginning:

RANDY AKERS - (Photographer) - words cannot describe how we feel about the job you've done. We were pleasantly surprised by the results of the experience you gained this year, in such a short time. Thanks for keeping our substitutes informed about darkroom activities - they're something no one should miss.

LISA ELEY - (Student Life) - So how do students live? You've come a long way since last year. We're glad you were here to help the newcomers, and us, get the job done. Thanks for all the tips on Bird watching: Let's hope they'll come in handy again, someday.

MICHELLE FULLER - (Underclassmen) - Meeshell, You did a great job! When anyone needed captions or names of students, you were always there with your spontaneity and open mind. You devoted yourself to your pages, as well as the whole book, and it really shows in your work.

AMANDA JOHNSON - (Student Life) - Your craziness and distinctive charm, charisma, and raunchy jokes eased the pain of the rough times. Your lizard face has marred our minds and been an inspiration for all of us.

JENNIFER JOHNSON - (Organizations) - Basically, you did it all, and the time and effort that you put into your section really paid off. So, how many clubs do we have? Even when hostility surrounded your pages, you put your personal feelings aside, the mark of a true staffer.

MICHELLE KINDER - (Seniors) - What a job! Your Pacific pride was a key factor in reminding us what the Yearbook is all about. Thanks for getting both sides of the story before putting it all on paper ... You done good.

JEFF KNORR - (Head Photographer) - It's been three long years, but we've finally done it. Your pictures - and most of all your patience - were appreciated and along with your unique sense of humor at deadline times helped ease the pressure tremendously. Even though "You ain't Fotomat ..." Thanks - it's been a blast.

BARBIE MATCHETTI - (Ads/Sports) - We aren't sure how you did it, but even with all the sports pages to finish, you managed to keep the paperwork concerning the ads in order. What an accomplishment! Also, thanks for keeping us informed on all the latest fashion trends.

KATHY MOORE - (Faculty) - You adjusted quite well to being a new staffer. When there was a job that needed to be done, we could always count on you. Your dedication to your section, as well as to Robert Plant, was overwhelming.

EUGENE POULIN - (Seniors) - Wammy! Wammy! Although Pacific will always be on your mind, You've been a fabulous S.L. student and staffer. Your risque comments, body-language, and general air of decadence and disarray added excitement to this year's staff and will be remembered by all.

JACKIE SPRINGER - (Underclassmen) - Thank you for your devotion this year. It was reassuring to know that we could count on you to pick up where ex-staffers left off. You were a definite plus.

DAWN WIRT - (Faculty) - Thanks for your unyielding patience and organization in scheduling pictures and completing your section. You really helped put the pieces together. Just think how useful it is to know the entire faculty ... by heart!

MRS. HALLAND - (Advisor) - We did it ... EXACTLY as expected. It's not many advisors who would allow their students to make Cheeto runs everyday. (Even if they were for you!) The confidence you gave all of us added to the enjoyment of being a part of staff. Your interesting sense of humor and intriguing vocabulary, not to mention your skill with the dreaded proportion wheel, have really made this a year never to forget. It's been a pleasure.

DAVE COURTNEY - (Rubiolo Photography) - Famous last words — "Are the pictures ready YET?" How you put up with all our nagging, we'll never figure out. Whenever we needed you, you were always available even at 5 a.m., with a smile on your face. Thanks for your patience through the hundreds of phone calls and rush orders and with never a complaint. We couldn't have done it without you. You and your establishment are to be commended!

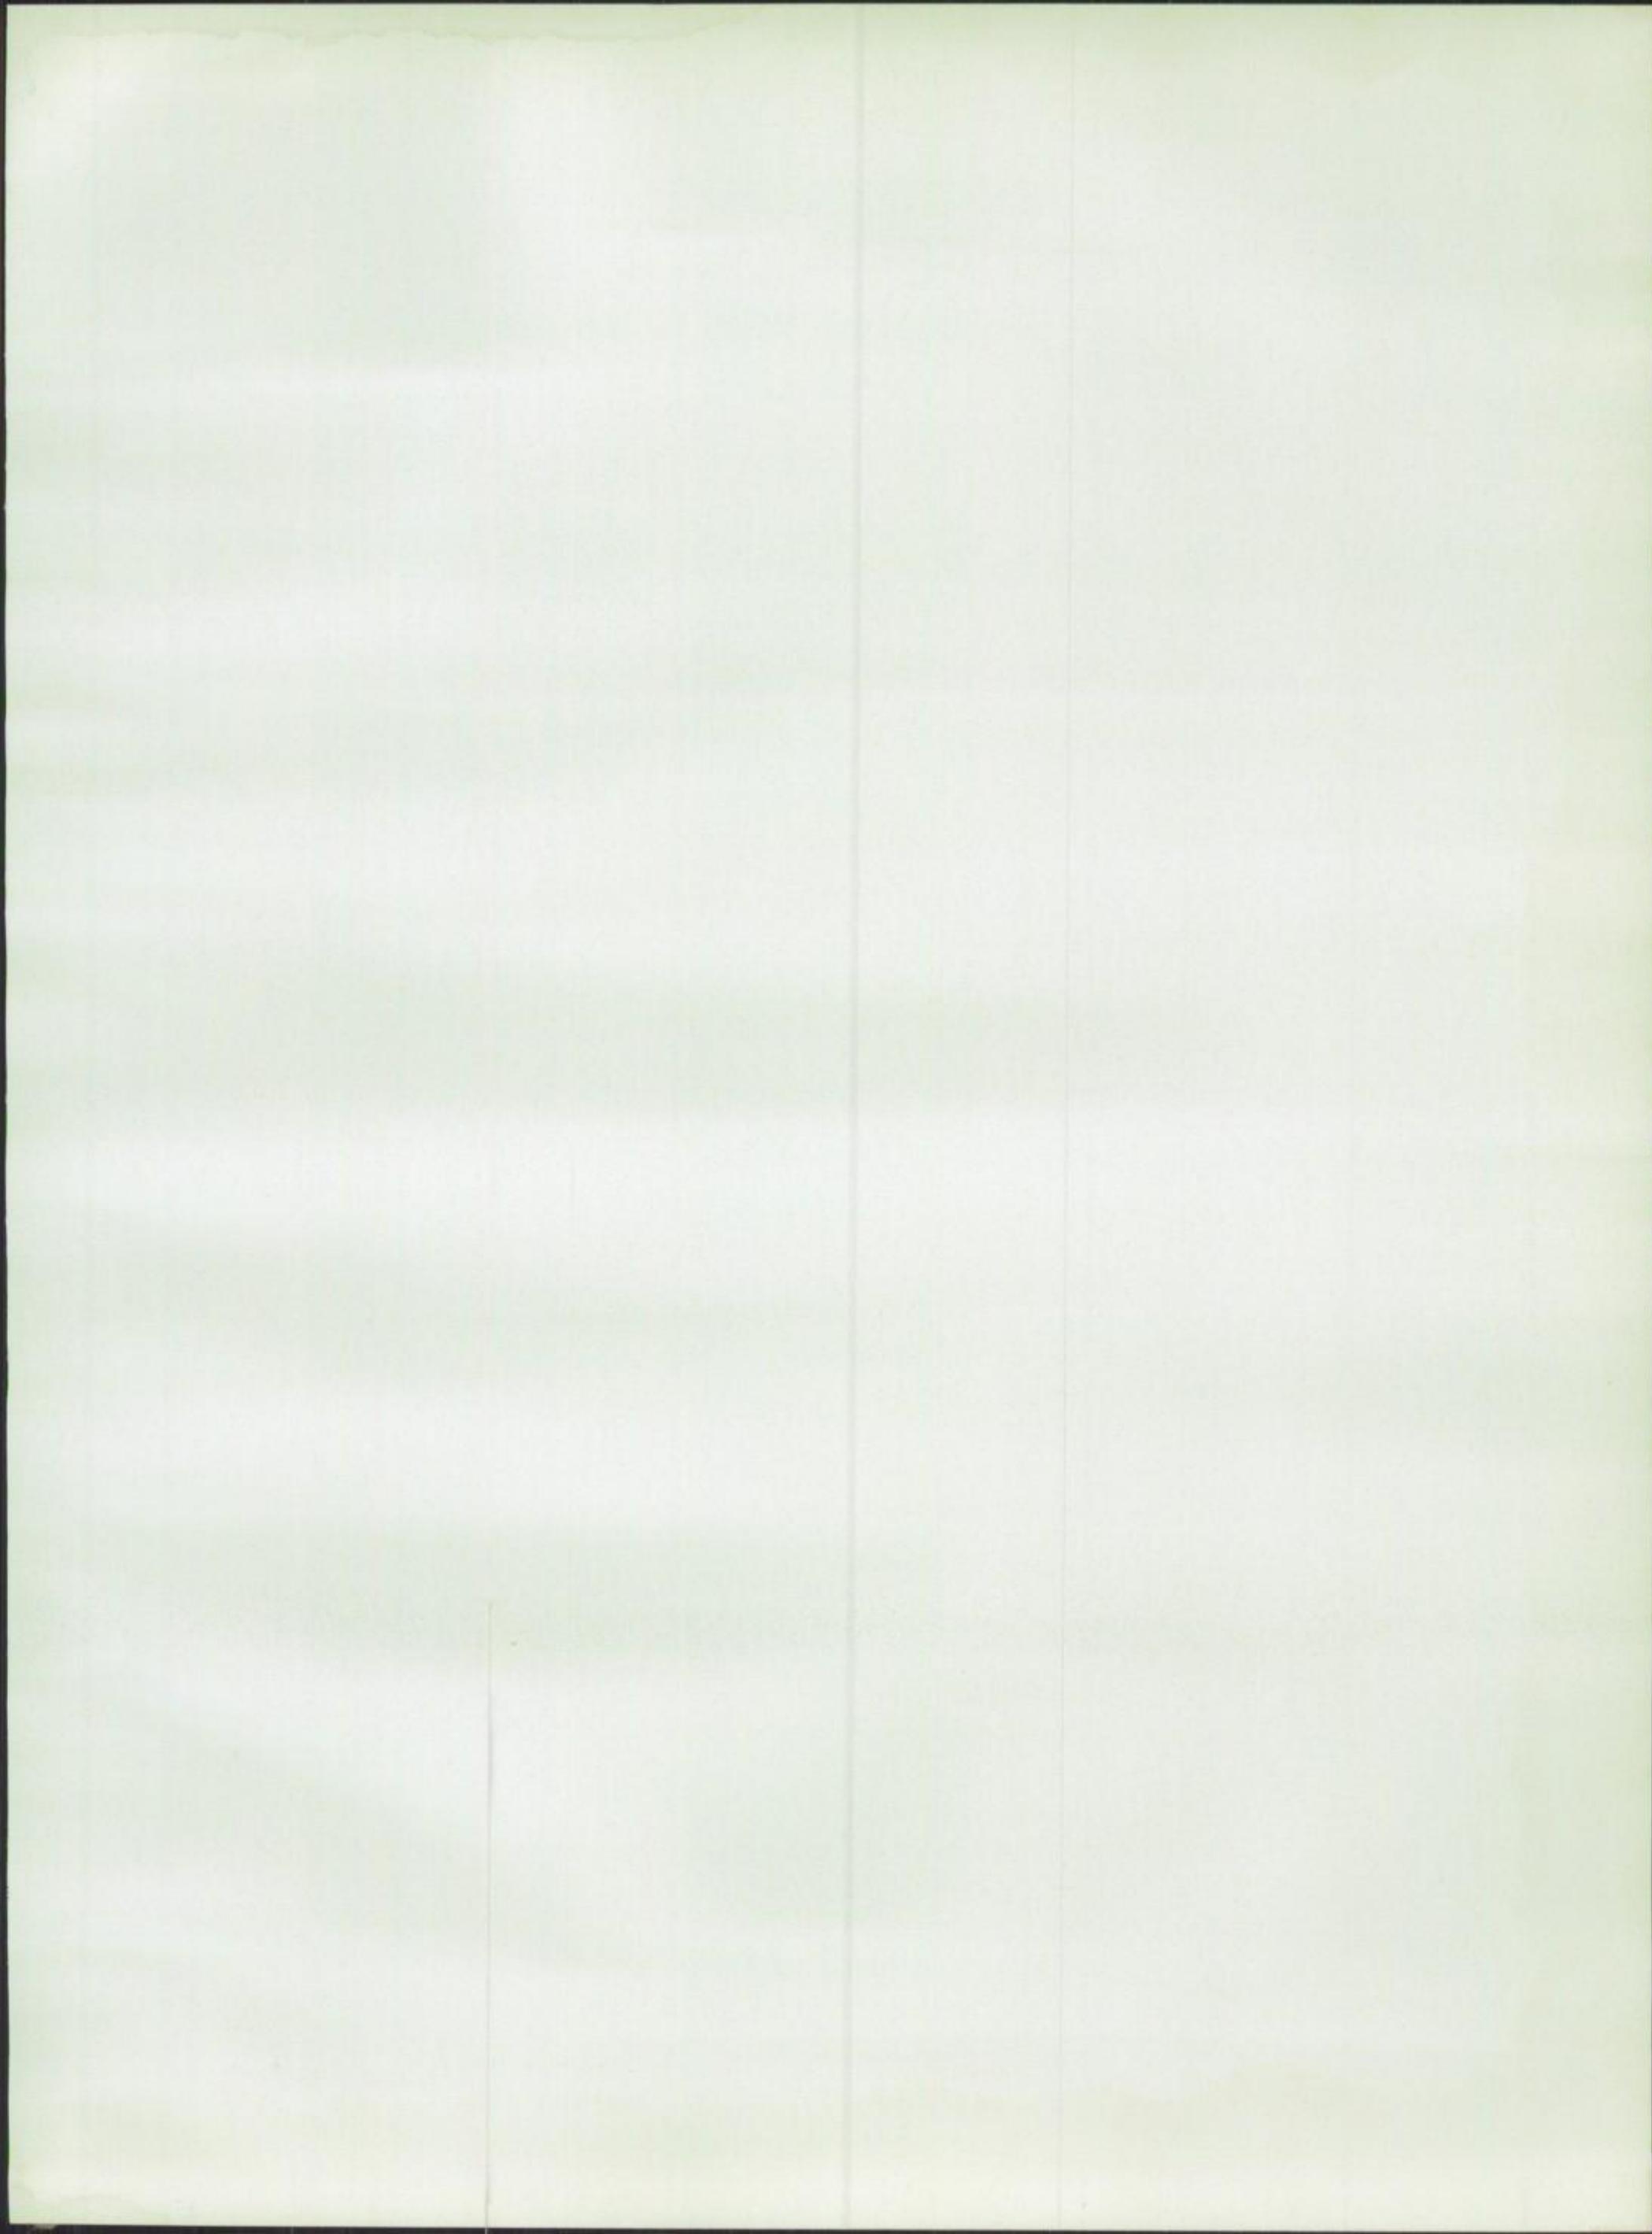

ED FAREWELL - (Walsworth Publishing) - We say this to you and not your answering machine (for once) Thanks! You've been one heck of a rep. All the trips out here to pick up pages, drop off supplies and just to check up on us have been appreciated to the utmost degree. Thanks for the help and advice on the way "it could look better."
